

CAMPOS BORE PAPERS.

SON OF RIOS GONE TO MADRID.

American Commissioners Expected to Present Memorandum on the Philippines to the Spanish Monday—Said in Washington All Islands to Be Held.

MADRID, Oct. 29.—Marshall Martinez Campos, after an audience with the queen regent and a prolonged conference with the minister of finance, Senor Puigcerver, left for Paris with important papers for the Spanish peace commissioners.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—A son of Senor Montero Rios, who is an attache of the Spanish peace commission, went to Madrid and will have a conference with the government.

The American peace commissioners at their sessions drew up a memorandum on the subject of the Philippine islands which it is expected they will place before the Spanish commissioners at the joint session which is to take place on Monday next.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The president was enabled to lay before the cabinet very encouraging reports from Paris regarding the progress of the peace negotiations. The administration now fully believes that the negotiations will be concluded much sooner than was expected from the outlook a few days ago. It can be stated authoritatively that the commissioners have not yet actually begun the discussion of the Philippine question, and further, that it will not be taken up until next week. Since the Spaniards have found that the American commissioners mean exactly what they say, and that their presentation of the side of the United States is in reality an ultimatum, the uselessness of prolonged debate, it is said, has become apparent to the Spaniards, and it is now believed the Philippine discussion will be less protracted than reported some days ago.

Although the members of the cabinet are extremely reticent on the subject of the acquisition of the Philippines, there is now little or no doubt that nothing less than the cession of the entire group of islands will be accepted by the American commissioners.

The United States has not assumed nor guaranteed the so-called municipal debt of Cuba or Cuban municipalities, but it is expected that such debts will be paid by the municipalities incurring them, for by no reasoning could they be charged upon Spain. Our government, it is said in official circles, would look upon any attempt at evading the payments of such debts as repudiation and dishonest, and whatever government is established in Cuba will be expected to see that these obligations are carried out in good faith. Moreover some of the bonds of Cuban municipalities are held by citizens of the United States and the United States might insist that the investments of her citizens in such securities are made good.

WANT THE PHILIPPINES.

Executive Committee of M. E. Woman's Foreign Missionary Society So Indicated at Its Meeting.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 29.—The executive committee of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church continued in session with increased attendance. The most significant action of the day was the introduction of a memorial by the New England branch providing that an appropriation be made for work in the Philippine islands to be available in case the islands shall be "provisionally opened to the society." The memorial was well received, and there was no mistaking the feeling of the delegates on the question of the retention of the islands.

It was agreed that the memorial be referred to a special committee, which will be announced by the president.

TWO MORE DEAD.

General Brooke Sends Word of Deaths in Porto Rico.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The following dispatch from Major General Brooke has been received at the war department:

SAN JUAN, Oct. 28. Died Oct. 27.—Private Peter Nolan, Company L, Third Wisconsin, typhoid; Private Homer M. Bailey, Company B, First Kentucky, typhoid; Private Talma, reported 20th, belongs to Company G, not Company H, Nineteenth infantry.

WAR INVESTIGATORS' JAUNT.

They May Go to Cuba and Porto Rico. Visited Chickamauga.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—A letter received here from a member of the war department investigation commission, now in the south, conveys the information that the members think they may be able to reach the city from their present tour about Nov. 4. It has been reported that the commission may afterwards visit Santiago and Porto Rico.

This will be settled definitely after its return to the city.

CHICKAMAUGA PARK, Oct. 29.—The war commission's special train ran down here and the commission immediately began the inspection of the site of Camp Thomas, which is now practically abandoned as a military camp.

Among others Dr. Charles F. Craig, bacteriologist of the Sternberg hospital, was examined. He expressed the opinion that the water taken from Chickamauga river through the pipe system was purer than that in the wells and springs of the grounds. He said he had found some sewer bacilli in one or two of the wells, though no typhoid germs. He had also found impurities in water taken from some of the springs. Through experiments he had learned flies could carry typhoid fever germs.

THANK PROVIDENCE.

The President Issues a Proclamation Telling What We Should Express Gratitude For Nov. 24.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The president issued the following thanksgiving proclamation:

By the President of the United States: A Proclamation.

The approaching November brings to mind the custom of our ancestors, hallowed by time and rooted in our most sacred traditions, of giving thanks to Almighty God for all the blessings he has vouchsafed to us during the past year.

Few years in our history have afforded cause for thanksgiving as this. We have been blessed by abundant harvests, our trade and commerce have been wonderfully increased, our public credit has been improved and strengthened, all sections of our common country have been brought together and united into closer bonds of national purpose and unity.

The skies have been for a time darkened by the cloud of war, but as we were compelled to take up the sword in the cause of humanity, we are permitted to rejoice that the conflict has been of brief duration and the losses we have had to mourn, though grievous and important, have been so few, considering the great results accomplished, as to inspire us with gratitude and praise to the Lord of Hosts. We may laud and magnify his holy name that the cessation of hostilities came so soon as to spare both sides the countless sorrows and disasters that attend protracted war.

I do therefore invite all my fellow citizens, as well those at home as those who may be at sea or sojourning in foreign lands, to set apart and observe Thursday, the twenty-fourth day of November, as a day of national thanksgiving, to come together in their several places of worship, for a service of praise and thanks to Almighty God for all the blessings of the year; for the mildness of the seasons and the fruitfulness of the soil, for the continued prosperity of the people, for the devotion and valor of our countrymen, for the glory of our victory and the hope of a righteous peace, and to pray that the divine guidance which has brought us heretofore to safety and honor may be graciously continued in the years to come.

In witness whereof, etc. (Sig.) WILLIAM MCKINLEY. By the president: JOHN HAY, Secretary of State.

PEACE JUBILEE ENDED.

A Rededication of Independence Hall and a Civic Parade Held, at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—The great peace jubilee has been brought to a close. A rededication of Independence hall occurred and then a civic parade.

Governor Hastings, Mayor Warwick and the other officials reviewed the parade from the same stand in the court of honor which the president occupied Thursday.

The rededication of old Independence hall, the historic building from which the Declaration of Independence was read to the people of the new republic on July 4, 1776, was interesting. The building, which had from time to time since that date been added for uses as offices of the municipal authorities, have all been recently removed and the famous hall is now in its original form.

The rededication exercises were presided over by Governor Hastings and were opened by prayer by Rev. Dr. Brownson. The governor also addressed the assemblage. The anthem "My Country 'Tis of Thee," was sung by 3,000 pupils of the public schools. Other exercises followed.

More than 20,000 men were in the line, the beauty of which was enhanced by many interesting floats. Especially handsome were those illustrative of the arts.

The commercial museums had floats descriptive of Hawaii, the Philippines, Porto Rico and Cuba. Four natives in costume were on the Hawaiian float, which also carried bags of sugar, coffee and other products. The same idea was pursued on the other floats representing our newly acquired colonies.

Generals Miles and Shafter were at the Bellevue during the early part of the parade, but saw none of it in public. Among those on the stand in front of that hotel were Consul General Magalhães of Brazil, his wife and niece, Countess Westbach.

One of the events of the day was a reception aboard the new Japanese cruiser Kasagi, by Captain Kashiwabara and the officers of the ship. The function was in the nature of a farewell, as the Kasagi, which recently went into commission, will shortly sail for England and after receiving her guns thence to Japan.

Captain Foraker Out of Danger.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—General Wate cables the war department from Havana that Captain J. B. Foraker, who has been ill with yellow fever, is out of danger and will start north at the end of next week.

MARCHAND'S MOVE.

Some London Papers Think It Indicates Yielding.

MAY LEAVE FOR CAIRO TODAY.

The French Commander Arrived at Khartoum From Fashoda—Assumed In London He Will Ask to Be Allowed to Withdraw His Force.

CAIRO, Oct. 29.—Major Marchand arrived at Khartoum from Fashoda and will start for Cairo today.

As the other Frenchmen remain at Fashoda, Major Marchand's departure from there is not regarded as a settlement of the question as to the possession of that place, which is in dispute between Great Britain and France.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The first cabinet minister to speak publicly since the cabinet council on Thursday is Lord Balfour of Burleigh, secretary for Scotland, who, when addressing a meeting at Calashiels, Scotland, declared that it was the settled policy of the government that the valley of the Nile must be Egyptian territory.

The morning newspaper editorials regard Major Marchand's movements from Fashoda to Khartoum as indicative of a yielding on the specific question in controversy, although the position is officially unaltered.

It is assumed that he will push on to Cairo in order to be in direct communication with the French government, and that on reaching there he will represent to Paris the impossibility of remaining at Fashoda under existing conditions, and will ask authority to withdraw his entire force.

There does not seem to be the slightest foundation for the report that the British cabinet has decided to declare the protectorate of Great Britain over Egypt.

TRAGEDY ON STREET CAR.

Crazy Man at Atlanta Killed a Passenger and Wounded Others—Had Asked to Be Locked Up.

ATLANTA, Oct. 29.—W. G. Shockley, an insane farmer of Auburn county, Ga., cut the throat of J. D. Bishop and wounded Police Captain John Thompson on a street car here. Robert McCoy, an ex-policeman, in effecting the capture of the demented murderer, was seriously but not fatally stabbed. Bishop died instantly.

Shockley called at the police station and asked to be locked up as he was going insane, but was thrown out of the station. Shockley then called on Governor Atkinson and asked for protection, and while the governor was telephoning the police, the insane man departed.

WILL PROTECT CATHOLICS.

Emperor William So Stated—May Reach Jerusalem Today.

JAFFA, Palestine, Oct. 29.—The emperor and empress of Germany were warmly welcomed on their arrival here, after a hot and tiring eight-hour drive from Haifa, by the German residents here. Their majesties proceeded on horseback to the camp at Babolwad and expect to reach Jerusalem today.

HAIFA, Palestine, Oct. 27.—(Delayed in transmission.)—Replying yesterday to the address of welcome in behalf of the German Catholics of Palestine, Emperor William of Germany said he was pleased to seize the opportunity of declaring "once and for all, that my Catholic subjects may always be sure of my imperial protection, when and where it may be required."

TO BUILD NICARAGUA CANAL.

If Congress Falls, New York Capitalists Are Ready to Take it Up.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Lyman E. Cooley is authority for the statement that the capitalists behind Edward F. Cragin and Frank S. Washburn in their effort to secure an option on a concession from the Nicaraguan government to construct an interoceanic canal are not from Chicago, but from New York, William R. Grace and son and Charles E. Flint.

Mr. Cooley says in case congress fails to act Grace and his associates will come in as residuary legatees next October if satisfactory arrangements can be made with the old company.

MAY ALLOW MAINE RAISED.

Navy Department Disposed to Accept the San Francisco Offer.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The Acme Wrecking company of San Francisco has made a request upon the navy department for authority to raise the battleship Maine.

If the government wants the ship after she reaches the United States the company will want to be paid salvage money through condemnation proceedings. It is probable, in case the government did not want the ship, the company would exhibit her in different large seacoast cities of the United States. No money is demanded from the government by the company. It is stated at the department unofficially that in case the company is found reliable the authority asked will no doubt be given.

OHIO GOLD EXCITEMENT.

Property About Malvern About Twice Its Usual Price—A Reliable Man Interviewed.

CANAL DOVER, O., Oct. 29.—The gold excitement at Malvern is still spreading, and there now seems to be sufficient evidence to indicate that gold really exists in paying quantities.

The details so far from the field have been meager because of the out-of-the-way location and the infrequency of travelers from that district to this point. Jacob Geppert, whose home is in Malvern, who arrived here, is a reputable man and his statements ought to be authoritative. In speaking of the new eldorado he said: "It is difficult to find out just what there is in it, for Mr. Alfred Warton, a newcomer, who has purchased a $4,000 mining outfit."

"Some of the reports have been shown to me, and they are more promising than the one made by Warton, which shows about $23 of pure gold to the ton of quartz. There is one assay made at the instance of a Malvern man, whose name I am not privileged to mention, which shows between $50 and $60 of gold to the ton."

"If it is all a scheme to raise the price of real estate on the part of Warton and other farmers, they should begin selling pretty soon. Many of them have now been offered more than twice the value of their land, but they are still holding on and say they will not sell at any price."

The big quartz crusher will be in operation within a day or two.

OHIO SOLDIERS INJURED.

CAMP MEADE, MIDDLETOWN, Pa., Oct. 29.—An accident that might have resulted very seriously occurred to the train on which the Ninth Ohio colored troops were coming to Camp Meade from Philadelphia. The train had reached Hummelstown, over the Reading road, and was waiting to be switched on to the branch road that goes to Middletown. While standing on the switch a freight train from Harrisburg came along on the same track and, before it could be flagged, it crashed into the troop train, mashing the rear car and injuring six men, all of Company C.

The injured are: Floyd Stewart, leg badly crushed, will have to be amputated, and Hugh Travers, severely injured, both taken to private houses in Hummelstown. The slightly injured are Emanuel Mack, Benjamin Bangs, Luther Whittier and Benjamin Williams, all of whom were injured about the legs and were badly confused. They were brought to the Harrisburg hospital. It was said the flagman did not go back far enough to stop the freight train.

MRS. ORR ELECTED PRESIDENT.

The State Federation of Women's Clubs Adjourned at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 29.—The Federation of Women's clubs concluded their convention. The election resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. W. P. Orr of Piqua. Vice president, Mrs. J. H. Canfield, Columbus.

Recording secretary, Miss Alpha Cheney, Washington C. H.

Corresponding secretary, Mrs. John Tucker, Newark.

Treasurer, Mrs. L. H. Selover, Cleveland.

Auditor, Mrs. H. C. Adams, Toledo. The committee on resolutions reported the following recommendations which were adopted:

"Whereas, There are 1,900 communities in Ohio, without even the nucleus of a public library, therefore, it is recommended that every woman's club in the state shall feel it incumbent upon them to work for a permanent library in its own community; and,

"Whereas, There are but five states in our Union without a state normal school and it may be said with regret that our own state is one of them, and as there are no bounds to the organized force of this woman's club movement, shall it not exert that force in the establishment of an Ohio state normal school."

SENSATION FROM THE BENCH.

Cleveland Judge Accuses a State Senator and Another Judge of Slander.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 29.—As a result of a story to the effect that Judge F. A. Dellenbaugh of the common pleas court had received half of an attorney's fees in a big divorce case, tried before him, the judge made a sensational statement from the bench.

He said Senator Burke started the story and Judge Lamson of the common pleas court circulated it. He said the bar association would determine which was the most malicious liar.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Major General Merriam has telegraphed to the war department that when the troops enroute to Manila arrive there General Otis will have under his command approximately 17,500 men.

GLASSWORKS TO START

American Company Plants to Be Ready For Work Nov. 3.

WAGE DIFFERENCES ARE SETTLED.

Both the Windowglass Cutters' League and the American Windowglass Flatteners' Association Got What They Asked For—About 6,000 Men Effected.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 29.—There will be rejoicing among 6,000 window glass workers and their families in different parts of the country today over the word that the factories will be ready to start work on next Thursday, Nov. 3. The settlement of the scales of the cutters' and flatteners' organizations between the wage committees representing the workers of these trades and the American Glass company makes this possible.

The scale which was signed with the Window Glass Cutters' League gives the cutters 27½ cents for cutting 100 feet of single strength glass and 39 cents for 100 feet of double strength glass. The scale signed with the representatives of the American Window Glass Flatteners' association gives the workers of this trade 25 per cent of the blowers' wages, according to the scale signed for this firm.

GOMEZ AGAINST GARCIA.

Cespedes Faction Hopes to Pit Him—May Refuse to Comply.

MANZANILLO, Oct. 29.—According to reports from the Cuban assembly at Santa Cruz del Sur, General Calixto Garcia has been chosen permanent chairman of the organization.

General Maximo Gomez is expected there today and it appears that the Cespedes faction believes it can count upon the help of General Gomez to break the authority of Garcia. The Cespedes faction expect General Gomez to appoint a courtmartial to try General Garcia for offenses covering practically everything from murder to petty larceny, but the probability is that General Gomez, recognizing Garcia's ascendancy in the assembly, will not force the issue.

TO PREVENT DISBANDMENT.

Cuban General Wants to Furnish Guards For Plantations.

MANZANILLO, Oct. 29.—The United States gunboat Hist arrived here with General Leonard Wood, commander of the military department of Santiago, accompanied by Lieutenant Matthew Hanna.

Colonel Pettit reported that the Cuban general, Rios, is apparently making every effort to prevent the disbanding of his troops. The Cuban commander wishes all the sugar estates in the neighborhood to tell him how many men they can employ and he will guarantee to supply all required on condition that only soldiers are employed. The planters unanimously refuse to fall in with such an arrangement.

THANK PROVIDENCE.

A Proclamation.

The approaching November brings to mind the custom of our ancestors, hallowed by time and rooted in our most sacred traditions, of giving thanks to Almighty God for all the blessings he has vouchsafed to us during the past year.

PEACE JUBILEE ENDED.

A Rededication of Independence Hall and a Civic Parade Held, at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—The great peace jubilee has been brought to a close. A rededication of Independence hall occurred and then a civic parade.

Governor Hastings, Mayor Warwick and the other officials reviewed the parade from the same stand in the court of honor which the president occupied Thursday.

The rededication of old Independence hall, the historic building from which the Declaration of Independence was read to the people of the new republic on July 4, 1776, was interesting. The building, which had from time to time since that date been added for uses as offices of the municipal authorities, have all been recently removed and the famous hall is now in its original form.

CANAL DOVER, O., Oct. 29.—The gold excitement at Malvern is still spreading, and there now seems to be sufficient evidence to indicate that gold really exists in paying quantities.

The details so far from the field have been meager because of the out-of-the-way location and the infrequency of travelers from that district to this point. Jacob Geffert, whose home is in Malvern, who arrived here, is a reputable man and his statements ought to be authoritative. In speaking of the new eldorado he said: "It is difficult to find out just what there is in it, for Mr. Alfred Wartmon, a newcomer, who has purchased a $1,000 mining outfit."

"Some of the reports have been shown to me, and they are more promising than the one made by Wartmon, which shows about $23 of pure gold to the ton of quartz. There is one assay made at the instance of a Malvern man, whose name I am not privileged to mention, which shows between $50 and $60 of gold to the ton."

"If it is all a scheme to raise the price of real estate on the part of Wartmon and other farmers, they should begin selling pretty soon. Many of them have now been offered more than twice the value of their land, but they are still holding on and say they will not sell at any price."

The big quartz crusher will be in operation within a day or two.

OHIO SOLDIERS INJURED.

CAMP MEADE, MIDDLETOWN, Pa., Oct. 29.—An accident that might have resulted very seriously occurred to the train on which the Ninth Ohio colored troops were coming to Camp Meade from Philadelphia. The train had reached Hummelstown, over the Reading road, and was waiting to be switched on to the branch road that goes to Middletown. While standing on the switch a freight train from Harrisburg came along on the same track and, before it could be flagged, it crashed into the troop train, mashing the rear car and injuring six men, all of Company C.

The injured are: Floyd Stewart, leg badly crushed, will have to be amputated, and Auga Travers, severely injured, both taken to private houses in Hummelstown. The slightly injured are Emanuel Mack, Benjamin Bangs, Luther Whitter and Benjamin Williams, all of whom were injured about the legs and were badly contused. They were brought to the Harrisburg hospital. It was said the flagman did not go back far enough to stop the freight train.

"Whereas, There are but five states in our Union without a state normal school and it may be said with regret that our own state is one of them, and as there are no bounds to the organized force of this woman's club movement, shall it not exert that force in the establishment of an Ohio state normal school."

GLASSWORKS TO START

American Company Plants to Be Ready For Work Nov. 3.

WAGE DIFFERENCES ARE SETTLED.

Both the Windowglass Cutters' League and the American Windowglass Flatteners' Association Got What They Asked For—About 6,000 Men Affected.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 29.—There will be rejoicing among 6,000 window glass workers and their families in different parts of the country today over the word that the factories will be ready to start work on next Thursday, Nov. 3. The settlement of the scales of the cutters' and flatteners' organizations between the wage committees representing the workers of these trades and the American Glass company makes this possible.

The scale which was signed with the Window Glass Cutters' League gives the cutters 27 1/2 cents for cutting 100 feet of single-strength glass and 39 cents for 100 feet of double strength glass. The scale signed with the representatives of the American Window Glass Flatteners' association gives the workers of this trade 25 per cent of the blowers' wages, according to the scale signed for this firm.

GOMEZ AGAINST GARCIA.

Cespedes Faction Hopes to Pit Him—May Refuse to Comply.

MANZANILLO, Oct. 29.—According to reports from the Cuban assembly at Santa Cruz del Sur, General Calixto Garcia has been chosen permanent chairman of the organization.

General Maximo Gomez is expected there today and it appears that the Cespedes faction believes it can count upon the help of General Gomez to break the authority of Garcia. The Cespedes faction expect General Gomez to appoint a courtmartial to try General Garcia for offenses covering practically everything from murder to petty larceny, but the probability is that General Gomez, recognizing Garcia's ascendancy in the assembly, will not force the issue.

TO PREVENT DISBANDMENT.

Cuban General Wants to Furnish Guards For Plantations.

MANZANILLO, Oct. 29.—The United States gunboat Hist arrived here with General Leonard Wood, commander of the military department of Santiago, accompanied by Lieutenant Matthew Hanna.

The Cuban commander wishes all the sugar estates in the neighborhood to tell him how many men they can employ and he will guarantee to supply all required on condition that only soldiers are employed. The planters unanimously refuse to fall in with such an arrangement.

KAISER AND CALIPH.

SIGNIFICANCE OF EMPEROR WILLIAM'S VISIT TO TURKEY.

Value of the Sultan's Friendship. The Kaiser's Efforts to Extend German Influence and to Checkmate the Czar in the Balkan Peninsula.

The effacement of religious rancors in our time is signally exemplified in the cordiality with which the Christian emperor of Germany is welcomed to Constantinople by the commander of the faithful. The sultan, Abdul Hamid, who professes to be the representative of the Abbassid caliphate, and, as such, head of Islam, does not hesitate to let his subjects see that he regards Kaiser William II not only as the guest whom he most delights to honor, but as the firmest prop of his spiritual and temporal authority. Yet it is only about 200 years since a Turkish army besieged Vienna, and even as lately as the last century the Ottoman ruler and the German head of the Holy Roman Empire were looked upon as the respective champions of irreconcilable faiths.

William II is thoroughly conversant with German history, and he is aware that he is now essaying a part which was played with partial success some six centuries ago by the Emperor Frederick II, whose manifold accomplishments earned for him the name of Stupor Mundi. That remarkable sovereign took a broad and tolerant view of Mohammedanism, and he turned his liberalism to account by securing from the sultan of Egypt substantial concessions in the Holy Land that no show of strength could have extorted. The next great Christian monarch to subordinate religious to political considerations was not a German, but a Frenchman. Nothing so perturbed the Emperor Charles V as the knowledge that a friendly understanding existed between Francis I of France and Soliman the Magnificent. The bond of amity then formed between Paris and Constantinople remained unbroken until after the French revolution. French warships took no part in the battle of Lepanto, and more than one French officer took service with the Ottoman troops which from time to time assailed the Austrian outposts along the Danube. In return for her good offices France acquired important commercial privileges in the Levant and certain tutelar powers in connection with the Catholic subjects of the sultan in Syria. The long friendship, however, between the two countries was ruptured by Napoleon's invasion of Egypt, and the estrangement was deepened 40 years later by the countenance which the government of Louis Philippe gave to Ibrahim Pasha's rebellion against Mahmoud II.

From the beginning of the present century down to our own day the post of Christian "next friend" to the sultan, vacated by France, was occupied by England, and British influence reached its acme in the person of Lord Stratford de Redcliffe, known to the Turks as "the Great Elchi." After his retirement from public life the ascendancy which he had gained for England at Constantinople was not steadily sustained, although it was temporarily revived by Lord Beaconsfield. Some years ago Prince Lobanoff, the head of the Russian foreign office, contrived to make his country preponderant in the councils of Yildiz Kiosk, and for a time it seemed quite possible that the czar might obtain a renewal of the treaty of Unkar Skelessi, by which in 1833 an effort was made to convert Turkey into a vassal state of the great northern empire. Since Lobanoff's death, however, Russia has lost ground, notwithstanding her willingness to avert an interposition of the powers on behalf of the Armenians, and the Christian sovereign to whom Abdul Hamid now looks for advice and support is Kaiser William II.

It is obvious that from a cordial understanding both caliph and kaiser would have much to gain. Such a combination could scarcely fail to prolong the hold of the Ottoman dynasty on the remnant of its possessions in southeastern Europe. There is no doubt that German engineers could render the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus impregnable, thus cutting off England and Russia from approach to the sultan's capital by sea. German officers, if lent, as Von Moltke was, for the purpose, could speedily convert the excellent war material furnished by the Turkish levies into a redoubtable military machine. The Asiatic revenues of Abdul Hamid would be materially increased if German enterprise and capital were permitted to develop the natural resources of Anatolia, and if the railway to Angora, already in German hands, were extended to the Tigris we should speedily witness a revival of agriculture and of manufactures throughout Mesopotamia, from Mosul to Bassora.

William II, on his part, may be reasonably supposed to have in view not only immediate but remote advantages. He aims to acquire forthwith the whole or a part of the tutelar functions which France has hitherto exercised in relation to the Catholic Christians in Syria, and to secure for Germans in Asia Minor such railway and mining privileges as will eventually give them throughout that extensive region the same commercial preponderance which China has conceded to them in the province of Shangtung. It is probable that the emperor's imagination is also haunted by visions or contingencies, that might open to him a prospect of aggrandizement nearer home. He has good reason to believe that when the disruption of the Hapsburg dominions shall take place the 9,000,000 of Germans in the cis-Leithan half of the dual monarchy will insist upon reunion with the German empire. This notable addition to his strength would encourage him to assert a claim to all of the Hapsburg provinces on this side of the Leitha, together with Bosnia, which is geographically associated with them. He would thus acquire seaports on the Adriatic and make Germany a Mediterranean power, and he would become a formidable, and, probably, successful, rival of the czar for ascendancy in the Balkan peninsula. From Bosnia and Novi Bazar there would be but a step to Salonica, one of the keys of the Aegean, whence, too, it would be far easier for a German force to move upon the Russian capital than it would be for a Russian army to cross the Danube and to pass the Balkans. As he rides through the streets of Stamboul today William II is pretty certain to remember that the outcome of the fifth crusade was to place a German warrior, Count Baldwin of Flanders, upon the throne of Constantine.—New York Sun.

KING OF JOCKEYS.

A Little Tale Relating to Tod Sloane's Fondness For Luxury.

Tod Sloane, the jockey, is admired in London for qualities that were never noticed in him in New York, although he doubtless possesses them, says the New York Sun. The London paragraphs have described him in terms that might almost be taken to indicate a disposition to look on him as a beauty. "Pale featured and dark wavy hair" is one phrase that gives only a faint idea of Mr. Sloane's intensely common sense and practical look. His luxurious way of life is another peculiarity which has made a profound impression. One of the newspapers prints this story of him: "Sloane's style of living is magnificent. He travels with the impedimenta of a prince doing the grand tour. Luxurious surroundings he likes and insists upon, not to gratify a pompous temperament, but simply because he likes them. His quarters in London are at the Hotel Cecil, where he is regarded generally with something more than curiosity and by the underlings almost with reverence. Among the wealth of anecdote which has accumulated round him is a little tale relating to this fondness for luxury. On the occasion of a race meeting somewhere out in the States an owner called beforehand at the most fashionable hotel in the place to engage a suit of rooms. The price asked was too extortionate even for a society millionaire, as he was, and he said so, and refused to take the rooms. "Then put 'em down to me," drawled a voice behind him. It was Tod. The millionaire was a man whose horses he rode. Sloane is much addicted to evening dress, and it suits him. There are jockeys whom it wouldn't. It is related of a famous entertainer of the swallowtail and piano kind that he once reproached an actor with slaving for a fixed wage. "Look at me," he said. "I make thousands." "Well," came the reply, "we don't all look so funny as you in evening dress." Sloane looks a gentleman in it.

Rubber Bands.

"Rubber bands have supplanted twine to a great extent in the last few years," observed a salesman in a drug store as he slipped a band around a 5 cent package of sodium bicarbonate. "Up to ten years ago rubber bands were seldom seen outside of a courthouse or a lawyer's office, and their use was confined almost exclusively to the filing of court documents and papers. Now you find them everywhere. Bands are used on all small packages in drug stores, and they have become an important factor in the grocery business. They answer the same purposes as twine, and are adjusted much easier.

"It may not be generally known that a rubber band is the best tooth cleaner known. It can be forced between the teeth, no matter how close together, and it removes accumulations that cannot be reached with a toothbrush. Yes, the rubber band has come to stay. I don't know to what extent it has hurt the twine industry, but it must be considerable."—Philadelphia Record.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 30. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Toric.—"Helpfulness."—Ex. xvii, 8-13; Gal. vi, 1-5.

We are dependent, independent and interdependent in this life. We depend upon God, we act independently for ourselves, and we also depend upon one another for much in life. "No man liveth to himself." He is dependent for much upon those who are about him in life. This mutual dependence is illustrated in the first topical reference. This is the story of the defeat of the Amalekites at Rephidim. God made success depend upon intercessory prayer. While Moses held up his hand Israel prevailed, but, when he let down his hand, Amalek. But Moses' hands became weary, and then Aaron and Hur held them up. Moses was dependent upon them for help. They were dependent upon Moses, after God, for success. Success or failure was as important to one as to another, and by their united action they brought success. By refusing to help one another they would have brought defeat upon all. We are thus mutually dependent upon one another in all the relations of life. In the home, in the Endeavor society, in the church, in society, in the business world, we need the help of one another, and in helping others we help ourselves, as Aaron and Hur benefited themselves in holding up the arms of Moses.

It is not only good policy to help one another in life, but it is also a religious duty. "Bear ye one another's burden" is the command of Paul. "Be willing to lay down your lives for the brethren" is the practical command of Christ, and in helping one another we thus fulfill the law of Christ.

We are to help one another in bearing all the burdens of life—its sorrows, its infirmities, its errors and its sins. The object of helping others to bear their sins is that they may be reclaimed. "If a brother be overtaken by a fault, ye that are spiritual restore such a one in the spirit of meekness." Restoration is the object of all helpfulness. Another incentive for this kind of helpfulness is our own liability to sin. "Considering thyself lest thou also be tempted," and being tempted presumably fall. We are least willing to help men bear their sins and errors. It is easier to give food to the hungry and clothing to the naked than it is to give a helping hand to a sinful, fallen brother, but Christianity demands that we shall do all three.

Nothing will bring greater happiness and greater blessing into our own lives than to cultivate the habit of helping others. It is more blessed to help than to be helped.

Bible Readings.—Deut. i, 34-38; iii, 28; II Sam. xi, 25; II Chron. xxix, 34; xxxi, 1-4; Ps. xxxiii, 20; xli, 1; Acts xxvi, 22; I Cor. xii, 28; II Cor. i, 11; viii, 1-8; Phil. iv, 18; II Tim. i, 16-18; Heb. iv, 16.

Time For Bible Reading.

A class of persons who profess to love the Bible excuse their neglect of it by saying that they have no time for Bible reading. But is there any person in this land who cannot command the time to read a chapter from the Scriptures every day? It may be doubted whether there is such a person. There are many who cannot do this and at the same time do all that they desire to do in other directions. But that is not a reason for neglecting the Bible. Our Bible reading should be one of the first duties of every day. A good rule is to read nothing else until we have read a portion of the Scriptures. If we adopt this rule, and rigidly adhere to it, we shall never lack the time to read at least a few verses from the Bible. This can be done at home and it can be done abroad; it can be done on a journey. The man of the world can read his newspapers on the cars. If we are as much interested in the Bible as he is in the daily news, we shall be able to read a chapter on a railroad train. And if it is always in mind we shall find no day too short to read a lesson from the Scriptures.—National Presbyterian.

From Presumptuous Sins.

There is a good old prayer in the Bible to be kept from presumptuous sins. It is well for men in business to repeat it when the temptations to run hazardous risks are so abundant. The most disgraceful fall I ever witnessed in a prominent church member arose from his own presumption that he could safely use a small part of a trust fund committed to him and would certainly replace it. Instead of replacing it he took more, and he soon found himself on a toboggan slide that carried him down to destruction. Venturing on God may be a noble act of faith; venturing on self is often an act of fatal folly. A good rule is never to do what we cannot conscientiously ask God to prosper, and never to go where we cannot ask our Master to go with us.—Evangelist.

God.

A fire mist and a planet,
A crystal and a cell,
A jellyfish and a saurian
And caves where the cave-men dwell,
Then a sense of law and beauty
And a face turned from the clod—
Some call it evolution,
And others call it God.

A haze on the far horizon,
The infant, tender sky,
The ripe, rich tints of the cornfields,
And all over upland and lowland
The charm of the goldenrod—
Some of us call it autumn.

"What Head-aches Mean."

The dreadful headaches which women suffer mean nineteen times out of twenty that there is more trouble than headache. There is probably some unhealthy condition of the delicate organism of womanhood and often added to this the digestive functions are out of order; these two conditions cause nearly all the headaches from which women suffer.

There are two great remedies specially adapted to these ailments invented by the chief consulting physician of the famous Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. R. V. Pierce. His world-renowned "Favorite Prescription" is the most successful medicine ever known for the cure of distinctly feminine ailments and his "Golden Medical Discovery" is the one supremely effective cure for digestive difficulties.

Taken in conjunction they completely rejuvenate the nervous system of weak and debilitated women; giving health, strength and capacity to the nerve-centers, renewed power to the blood-making glands and energetic force to the entire body.

A lady living in Coshocton Co., Ohio, Mrs. T. Stanton, of Blissfield, writes: "I had female weakness very bad for nearly three years. Had dragging down pains in and above my hips and such dreadful pains in the back and top of my head (just as though someone was lifting me by the hair). Had no ambition, would try to work a few days then would have to lie in bed for a long time. No tongue can express the suffering I endured. I had much pain at monthly periods. I doctored most of the time with as good a physician as there is in the state, but had no ease only when I was quiet and off my feet and then I had more or less pain in my head. When I began taking Dr. Pierce's medicines I weighed 102 pounds, and was very pale and weak. Took twelve bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and seven of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Now I feel like a different person. Have no pain in my head, can do all my work for self, husband and one child, am gaining in flesh. I feel it is through God's mercy and your wonderful medicines that I am cured."

Where constipated conditions exist Dr. Pierce's mild and agreeable "Pleasant Pellets" should be occasionally used in connection with the "Prescription."

REFINED TORTURE.

It's on the Decrease in East Liverpool Now—A Citizen Explains Why.

Year in and year out many of our citizens have struggled along bearing unnecessary burdens of the back, seeking relief from sources where it could not be found, suffering the refined torture which goes with a bad back. The little computer has brought about a wonderful change and from all parts come the same story. Hundreds of grateful citizens hasten to endorse the good work and speak publicly of their own personal benefit. Read what this East Liverpool citizen says:

Mrs. Wm. Dunn, of 192 Sixth street, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills did for me what none of the doctors could do. They told me I had gravel and a little relief was all I could expect. I suffered terribly for two or three years, alternately better and worse, with severe pains across the small of my back and up my sides, particularly my right side. The pains were so severe that I was often obliged to stay in bed, not being able to get up. My limbs used to swell up so I could hardly walk, and periodically I was taken with such severe pains through the groins that I could hardly stand it. The doctors advised hot applications and gave me bottle after bottle of medicine, but I did not receive any real benefit until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. Pharmacy. Having seen them so highly recommended by others, I took them and am gratified to say that they helped me almost at once."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers, price 50 cents, or sent by mail by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

And others call it God.

Like the tides on a crescent seaboard
When the moon is new and thin,
Into our hearts high yearnings
Come welling and surging in.
Come from the mystic ocean,
Whose rim no foot has trod—
Some of us call it longing;
Others call it God.

A picket from on duty,
A mother starved for her brood,
Socrates drinking the hemlock
And Jesus on the rood,
The million who, humble and nameless,
The straight, hard pathway trod—
Some call it consecration,
And others call it God.

IRONDALE IS DISTURBED

Fears the Tin Mill Will Leave the Town

FOR LIVERPOOL OR VICINITY

The Plant Shut Down Today For Repairs. It Is Said, but Some Property Owners Think It Will Never Be Operated In the Little Valley Again.

Residents of Irondale fear the tin mill will soon be moved from that place to East Liverpool or some spot near this city.

A well known merchant of this place was in Irondale yesterday and upon his return was filled with stories he had heard of the change. He said:

"Real estate was at a discount in Irondale yesterday because of the report spread that the mill will be moved to Liverpool. The report was started some time ago, but not until a day or two ago did it become annoying to property owners. Then it was said the plant would shut down for a time for repairs, and that added fuel to the flame. Of course I do not vouch for the truth of the statement that the mill is to be moved, but I do know the town is much disturbed, excited perhaps would be a better word."

From another source comes the story that the plant is to become a part of the great tin plate trust now in course of formation, and it, like many other tin mills, is being shut down for a few weeks until the deal is completed. Nothing definite, however, is known of the movement.

KAISER AND CALIPH.

Value of the Sultan's Friendship. The Kaiser's Efforts to Extend German Influence and to Checkmate the Czar in the Balkan Peninsula.

The effacement of religious rancors in our time is signally exemplified in the cordiality with which the Christian emperor of Germany is welcomed to Constantinople by the commander of the faithful. The sultan, Abdul Hamid, who professes to be the representative of the Abbassid caliphate, and, as such, head of Islam, does not hesitate to let his subjects see that he regards Kaiser William II not only as the guest whom he most delights to honor, but as the firmest prop of his spiritual and temporal authority. Yet it is only about 200 years since a Turkish army besieged Vienna, and even as lately as the last century the Ottoman ruler and the German head of the Holy Roman Empire were looked upon as the respective champions of irreconcilable faiths.

William II is thoroughly conversant with German history, and he is aware that he is now essaying a part which was played with partial success some six centuries ago by the Emperor Frederick II, whose manifold accomplishments earned for him the name of Stupor Mundi. That remarkable sovereign took a broad and tolerant view of Mohammedanism, and he turned his liberalism to account by securing from the sultan of Egypt substantial concessions in the Holy Land that no show of strength could have extorted. The next great Christian monarch to subordinate religious to political considerations was not a German, but a Frenchman. Nothing so perturbed the Emperor Charles V as the knowledge that a friendly understanding existed between Francis I of France and Soliman the Magnificent. The bond of amity then formed between Paris and Constantinople remained unbroken until after the French revolution. French warships took no part in the battle of Lepanto, and more than one French officer took service with the Ottoman troops which from time to time assailed the Austrian outposts along the Danube. In return for her good offices France acquired important commercial privileges in the Levant and certain tutelary powers in connection with the Catholic subjects of the sultan in Syria. The long friendship, however, between the two countries was ruptured by Napoleon's invasion of Egypt, and the estrangement was deepened 40 years later by the countenance which the government of Louis Philippe gave to Ibrahim Pasha's rebellion against Mahmoud II.

From the beginning of the present century down to our own day the post of Christian "next friend" to the sultan, vacated by France, was occupied by England, and British influence reached its acme in the person of Lord Stratford de Redcliffe, known to the Turks as "the Great Elchi." After his retirement from public life the ascendancy which he had gained for England at Constantinople was not steadily sustained, although it was temporarily revived by Lord Beaconsfield. Some years ago Prince Lobanoff, the head of the Russian foreign office, contrived to make his country preponderant in the councils of Yildiz Kiosk, and for a time it seemed quite possible that the czar might obtain a renewal of the treaty of Unkiar Skelessi, by which in 1833 an effort was made to convert Turkey into a vassal state of the great northern empire. Since Lobanoff's death, however, Russia has lost ground, notwithstanding her willingness to avert an interpolation of the powers on behalf of the Armenians, and the Christian sovereign to whom Abdul Hamid now looks for advice and support is Kaiser William II.

It is obvious that from a cordial understanding both caliph and kaiser would have much to gain. Such a combination could scarcely fail to prolong the hold of the Ottoman dynasty on the remnant of its possessions in southeastern Europe. There is no doubt that German engineers could render the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus impregnable, thus cutting off England and Russia from approach to the sultan's capital by sea. German officers, if lent, as Von Moltke was, for the purpose, could speedily convert the excellent war material furnished by the Turkish levies into a redoubtable military machine. The Asiatic revenues of Abdul Hamid would be materially increased if German enterprise and capital were permitted to develop the natural resources of Anatolia, and if the railway to Angora, already in German hands, were extended to the Tigris we should speedily witness a revival of agriculture and of manufactures throughout Mesopotamia, from Mosul to Bassora.

William II, on his part, may be reasonably supposed to have in view not only immediate but remote advantages. He aims to acquire forthwith the whole or a part of the tutelary functions which France has hitherto exercised in relation to the Catholic Christians in Syria, and to secure for Germans in Asia Minor such railway and mining privileges as will eventually give them throughout that extensive region the same commercial preponderance which China has conceded to them in the province of Shangtung. It is probable that the emperor's imagination is also haunted by visions of contingencies, that might open to him a prospect of aggrandizement nearer home. He has good reason to believe that when the disruption of the Hapsburg dominions shall take place, the 9,000,000 of Germans in the cis-Leithan half of the dual monarchy will insist upon reunion with the German empire. This notable addition to his strength would encourage him to assert a claim to all of the Hapsburg provinces on this side of the Leitha, together with Bosnia, which is geographically associated with them. He would thus acquire seaports on the Adriatic and make Germany a Mediterranean power, and he would become a formidable, and, probably, successful, rival of the czar for ascendancy in the Balkan peninsula. From Bosnia and Novi Bazar there would be but a step to Salonica, one of the keys of the Aegean, whence, too, it would be far easier for a German force to move upon the sultan's capital than it would be for a Russian army to cross the Danube and to pass the Balkans. As he rides through the streets of Stamboul today William II is pretty certain to remember that the outcome of the fifth crusade was to place a German warrior, Count Baldwin of Flanders, upon the throne of Constantine.—New York Sun.

KING OF JOCKEYS.

A Little Tale Relating to Tod Sloane's Fondness For Luxury.

Tod Sloane, the jockey, is admired in London for qualities that were never noticed in him in New York, although he doubtless possesses them, says the New York Sun. The London paragraphs have described him in terms that might almost be taken to indicate a disposition to look on him as a beauty. "Pale featured and dark wavy hair" is one phrase that gives only a faint idea of Mr. Sloane's intensely common sense and practical look. His luxurious way of life is another peculiarity which has made a profound impression. One of the newspapers prints this story of him: "Sloane's style of living is magnificent. He travels with the impedimenta of a prince doing the grand tour. Luxurious surroundings he likes and insists upon, not to gratify a pompous temperament, but simply because he likes them. His quarters in London are at the Hotel Cecil, where he is regarded generally with something more than curiosity and by the underlings almost with reverence. Among the wealth of anecdotes which has accumulated round him is a little tale relating to this fondness for luxury. On the occasion of a race meeting somewhere out in the States an owner called beforehand at the most fashionable hotel in the place to engage a suit of rooms. The price asked was too extortionate even for a society millionaire, as he was, and he said so, and refused to take the rooms. "Then put 'em down to me," drawled a voice behind him. It was Tod. The millionaire was a man whose horses he rode. Sloane is much addicted to evening dress, and it suits him. There are jockeys whom it wouldn't. It is related of a famous entertainer of the swallowtail and piano kind that he once reprobated an actor with slaving for a fixed wage. "Look at me," he said. "I make thousands." "Well," came the reply, "we don't all look so funny as you in 'evening dress.'" Sloane looks a gentleman in it."

Rubber Bands.

"Rubber bands have supplanted twine to a great extent in the last few years," observed a salesman in a drug store as he slipped a band around a 5 cent package of sodium bicarbonate. "Up to ten years ago rubber bands were seldom seen outside of a courthouse or a lawyer's office, and their use was confined almost exclusively to the filing of court documents and papers. Now you find them everywhere. Bands are used on all small packages in drug stores, and they have become an important factor in the grocery business. They answer the same purposes as twine, and are adjusted much easier.

"It may not be generally known that a rubber band is the best tooth cleaner known. It can be forced between the teeth, no matter how close together, and it removes accumulations that cannot be reached with a toothbrush. Yes, the rubber band has come to stay. I don't know to what extent it has hurt the twine industry, but it must be considerable."—Philadelphia Record.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic.—"Helpfulness."—Ex. xvii, 8-13; Gal. vi, 1-5.

We are dependent, independent and interdependent in this life. We depend upon God, we act independently for ourselves, and we also depend upon one another for much in life. "No man liveth to himself." He is dependent for much upon those who are about him in life. This mutual dependence is illustrated in the first topical reference. This is the story of the defeat of the Amalekites at Rephidim. God made success depend upon intercessory prayer. While Moses held up his hand Israel prevailed, but, when he let down his hand, Amalek. But Moses' hands became weary, and then Aaron and Hur held them up. Moses was dependent upon them for help. They were dependent upon Moses, after God, for success. Success or failure was as important to one as to another, and by their united action they brought success. By refusing to help one another they would have brought defeat upon all. We are thus mutually dependent upon one another in all the relations of life. In the home, in the Endeavor society, in the church, in society, in the business world, we need the help of one another, and in helping others we help ourselves, as Aaron and Hur benefited themselves in holding up the arms of Moses.

It is not only good policy to help one another in life, but it is also a religious duty. "Bear ye one another's burden" is the command of Paul. "Be willing to lay down your lives for the brethren" is the practical command of Christ, and in helping one another we thus fulfill the law of Christ.

We are to help one another in bearing all the burdens of life—its sorrows, its infirmities, its errors and its sins. The object of helping others to bear their sins is that they may be reclaimed. "If a brother be overtaken by a fault, ye that are spiritual restore such a one in the spirit of meekness." Restoration is the object of all helpfulness. Another incentive for this kind of helpfulness is our own liability to sin. "Considering thyself lest thou also be tempted," and being tempted presumably fall. We are least willing to help men bear their sins and errors. It is easier to give food to the hungry and clothing to the naked than it is to give a helping hand to a sinful, fallen brother, but Christianity demands that we shall do all three.

Nothing will bring greater happiness and greater blessing into our own lives than to cultivate the habit of helping others. It is more blessed to help than to be helped.

Bible Readings.—Deut. i, 34-38; iii, 28; II Sam. xi, 25; II Chron. xxix, 34; xxxi, 1-4; Ps. xxxiii, 20; xlv, 1; Acts xxvi, 22; I Cor. xii, 28; II Cor. i, 11; viii, 1-8; Phil. iv, 18; II Tim. i, 16-18; Heb. iv, 16.

Time For Bible Reading.

A class of persons who profess to love the Bible excuse their neglect of it by saying that they have no time for Bible reading. But is there any person in this land who cannot command the time to read a chapter from the Scriptures every day? It may be doubted whether there is such a person. There are many who cannot do this and at the same time do all that they desire to do in other directions. But that is not a reason for neglecting the Bible. Our Bible reading should be one of the first duties of every day. A good rule is to read nothing else until we have read a portion of the Scriptures. If we adopt this rule, and rigidly adhere to it, we shall never lack the time to read at least a few verses from the Bible. This can be done at home and it can be done abroad; it can be done on a journey. The man of the world can read his newspapers on the cars. If we are as much interested in the Bible as he is in the daily news, we shall be able to read a chapter on a railroad train. And if it is always in mind we shall find no day too short to read a lesson from the Scriptures.—National Presbyterian.

From Presumptuous Sins.

There is a good old prayer in the Bible to be kept from presumptuous sins. It is well for men in business to repeat it when the temptations to run hazardous risks are so abundant. The most disgraceful fall I ever witnessed in a prominent church member arose from his own presumption that he could safely use a small part of a trust fund committed to him and would certainly replace it. Instead of replacing it he took more, and he soon found himself on a toboggan slide that carried him down to destruction. Venturing on God may be a noble act of faith; venturing on self is often an act of fatal folly. A good rule is never to do what we cannot conscientiously ask God to prosper, and never to go where we cannot ask our Master to go with us.—Evangelist.

God.

A fire mist and a planet,
A crystal and a cell,
A jellyfish and a saurian
And caves where the cavemen dwell,
Then a voice of law and beauty
And a face turned from the clod—
Some call it evolution,
And others call it God.

A haze on the far horizon,
The misty, tender sky;
The ripe, rich tints of the cornfields,
And the wild geese sailing high,
And all over upland and lowland
The charm of the goldenrod—
Some of us call it autumn,

"What Headaches Mean."

The dreadful headaches which women suffer mean nineteen times out of twenty that there is more trouble than headache. There is probably some unhealthy condition of the delicate organism of womanhood and often added to this the digestive functions are out of order; these two conditions cause nearly all the headaches from which women suffer.

There are two great remedies specially adapted to these ailments invented by the chief consulting physician of the famous Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. R. V. Pierce. His world-renowned "Favorite Prescription" is the most successful medicine ever known for the cure of distinctly feminine ailments and his "Golden Medical Discovery" is the one supremely effective cure for digestive difficulties.

Taken in conjunction they completely rejuvenate the nervous system of weak and debilitated women; giving health, strength and capacity to the nerve-centers, renewed power to the blood-making glands and energetic force to the entire body.

A lady living in Coshocton Co., Ohio, Mrs. W. T. Stanton, of Blissfield, writes: "I had female weakness very bad for nearly three years. Had dragging down pains in and above my hips and such dreadful pains in the back and top of my head (just as though someone was lifting me by the hair). Had no ambition, would try to work a few days then would have to lie in bed for a long time. No tongue can express the suffering I endured. I had much pain at monthly periods. I doctored most of the time with as good a physician as there is in the state, but had no ease only when I was quiet and off my feet and then I had more or less pain in my head. When I began taking Dr. Pierce's medicines I weighed 102 pounds, and was very pale and weak. I took twelve bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and seven of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Now I feel like a different person. Have no pain in my head, can do all my work for self, husband and one child, am gaining in flesh, I feel it is through God's mercy and your wonderful medicines that I am cured."

Where constipated conditions exist Dr. Pierce's mild and agreeable "Pleasant Pellets" should be occasionally used in connection with the "Prescription."

REFINED TORTURE.

It's on the Decrease in East Liver Now—A Citizen Explains Why.

Year in and year out many of our citizens have struggled along bearing unnecessary burdens of the back, seeking relief from sources where it could not be found, suffering the refined torture which goes with a bad back. The little conqueror has brought about a wonderful change and from all parts come the same report. Hundreds of grateful citizens hasten to endorse the good work and speak publicly of their own personal benefit. Read what this East Liverpool citizen says:

Mrs. Wm. Dunn, of 192 Sixth street, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills did for me what none of the doctors could do. They told me I had gravel and a little relief was all I could expect. I suffered terribly for two or three years, alternately better and worse, with severe pains across the small of my back and up my sides, particularly my right side. The pains were so severe that I was often obliged to stay in bed, not being able to get up. My limbs used to swell up so I could hardly walk, and periodically I was taken with such severe pains through the groins that I could hardly stand it. The doctors advised hot applications and gave me bottle after bottle of medicine, but I did not receive any real benefit until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. Pharmacy. Having seen them so highly recommended by others, I took them and am gratified to say that they helped me almost at once."

Into our hearts his yearnings

Come from the mystic ocean,
Whose rim no foot has trod—
Some of us call it longing;

"When I looked into the dining room of a house that I was in one night," said the retired burglar, "I saw a man sitting in a chair perched upon the dining room table. That seemed a singular place for a man to get to sit, drunk or sober, but I thought I'd have to give him a chance to get tired of sitting there and go to bed before I began, for if I didn't he might wake up any minute and interrupt things. So I took a seat in a big leather chair in the library, next room, and waited for him to wake up. When I'd waited what I thought was a reasonable time without hearing from him, I looked in again, and there he was, still sitting there, just the same."

"But this time, even in that light, there was something peculiar about him, and I ventured to turn my own light on him now, and then I saw that it wasn't a man at all, but a suit of clothes, with a hat on top, set up there to dry after being wet in the rain. The man that had worn them had been abed and asleep for hours, but his clothes had served for a scarecrow mighty well, for I'd sat there waiting for them to go to bed so long that it was now too late for business."—New York Sun.

A Burglar's Mistake.

"When I looked into the dining room of a house that I was in one night," said the retired burglar, "I saw a man sitting in a chair perched upon the dining room table. That seemed a singular place for a man to get to sit, drunk or sober, but I thought I'd have to give him a chance to get tired of sitting there and go to bed before I began, for if I didn't he might wake up any minute and interrupt things. So I took a seat in a big leather chair in the library, next room, and waited for him to wake up. When I'd waited what I thought was a reasonable time without hearing from him, I looked in again, and there he was, still sitting there, just the same."

"But this time, even in that light, there was something peculiar about him, and I ventured to turn my own light on him now, and then I saw that it wasn't a man at all, but a suit of clothes, with a hat on top, set up there to dry after being wet in the rain. The man that had been there had been abed and asleep for hours, but his clothes had served for a scarecrow mighty well, for I'd sat there waiting for them to go to bed so long that it was now too late for business."—New York Sun.

It would be hard for the best Democratic orator in the land to convince the people of East Liverpool just now that the Republican party does not keep its promises.

Democratic claims count for nothing when we remember that Bryan's election was predicted by every other member of his party even when the votes were being counted.

WHILE the Republican newspapers of the district are cheerfully conceding Major Weybrecht all that his friends may claim, the malignant Democratic press is abusing Hon. R. W. Taylor every day. It is not courtesy, and certainly cannot at this time be called good politics.

FRIGHTENED.

The Democrats are frightened. Not only in Ohio do they fear the result of the election, but throughout the country are they expecting Republican gains.

It all comes from the blunder of the individual who first declared the war had been a failure, and President McKinley representing the Republican party should be rebuked by a sweeping Democratic victory. The story worked well for a week or two, but, when the people began to think, the Democrats knew they were on the wrong track. How to right themselves in the public eye was the next question, and it doubtless occasioned much anxiety, but a course was at length decided upon in the form of a circular issued by Secretary Kerr. In it he pleads for the support of the people for the party, and protests that Democracy never thought of aiding Spain, nor would it if it gained control of the house of representatives. But Mr. Kerr loses. The people cannot reconcile the statements of the Democratic press and those of the circular. They are too wide apart. They mean too much when placed side by side.

Colonel Poorman Also Talked of War.

AFTER THE ADMINISTRATION

He Quoted Amounts as Though Millions of Dollars Were as Nothing, and Handled the Silver Question Much After the Fashion of the Orators Who Made Republican Votes Two Years Ago--Few People Saw the Opening of the Democratic Campaign.

The Democratic meeting held last evening was attended by less than 200 people, and very little enthusiasm was displayed.

The meeting was called to order by R. J. Meakin, who announced that J. J. Weisend had been selected as chairman. Mr. Weisend in a short speech introduced Col. C. L. Poorman, and he said:

"Fellow countrymen—I am here rather unexpectedly on a few days' notice to speak on the issues of the campaign. I understand this is the first speech of the campaign in your city, and there is also one to be delivered here tomorrow night. I have heard many speeches during this campaign and have read many more of the people of the administration party and have been struck with their similarity. They have been making speeches so near alike. They eulogize proficently the great work of the administration in relation to the American-Spanish war, and talk of the great things the administration has done, not only in the war, but in providing prosperity to the business interests all over the country. Having done this they appeal to you to stand by the administration and hold up their hands until they dispose of the questions arising out of the war.

"My fellow countrymen, in 1896 both parties in their platform were in favor of freedom for Cuba. The whole of the American people were in favor of driving the Spanish out of the western hemisphere. Cuba would have had her freedom before this and no money would have been spent by this government; no bonds issued making an additional tax of $6,000,000 on the people, if this administration and the one preceding it, (as this administration follows in its steps,) if Mr. Cleveland or Mr. McKinley had promptly recognized the belligerency of the Cubans and allowed the Americans who wanted to fight for Cuba to do so. Cuba would have been free quicker this way than we have made it. That is my opinion. The victory of the war belongs to no party. All parties were in favor of it. Everybody became disgusted because the administration did not favor freedom for Cuba, but wanted to establish a stable government without considering of a Cuban government. All the negotiations between the administration and Spain were for a stable government for the island without driving the Spaniards out. The people in congress finally became tired of the discussion and forced the hand of the administration, and now we are asked to hold up the hands of the administration. The Cuban question has nothing to do with this question and ought not to be brought into it, but if it is by one party then why not make it so that all people may vote intelligently on it. Congress decided upon war with a unanimity that has never been known by this or any other country. Fifty million dollars was voted the administration to use as they saw fit. Both parties were for war, and when it is said by some of the Republicans that there was any antagonism to the appropriation it is done to mislead the people. There was a difference of opinion as to how the money should be raised, and I am glad there was antagonism to the system adopted which places the burden on the people. The $200,000,000 bonds issued are useless, and every dollar of it is still in the treasury, none having been used, yet there is an interest of $6,000,000 a year to be paid. The idea of a great nation like the United States going to war with a bankrupt country like Spain and have to borrow money to do it. It is an insult to the American people. The issue of bonds was not necessary. Why did they not wait until the money was needed and then issue bonds if necessary? When war was declared there was $100,000,000 in the treasury left over from the preceding administration, with a law bringing in $175,000,000 a year and $49,000,000 of silver in the treasury to be coined. They were pleased with to coin the silver, but they refused to do it, because the money lenders of the country have the administration by the throat. I am willing to give the administration credit for all it has done in the interests of the American nation and flag.

"I have known President McKinley for years and when he was governor of the state he appointed me to the office of secretary of state to fill an unexpired term. I had been a Republican for years, and when the silver question came up I read all the gold standard argument in order to be better posted, and was struck with the fallacies of it. When the party decided in 1888 and 1892 in favor of gold and silver, and as late as 1890 I heard President McKinley denounce Grover Cleveland in a speech at Toledo for trying to force the gold standard on the people, I believed we stood on the same platform the same as we had stood for 20 years. When they tried to force the gold standard on the people then I thought it time to leave the party and in 1896 came the parting of the ways. There is no Abraham Lincoln Republican party in the country today. There is no Grover Cleveland Democratic party in the country today. In 1896 Grover Cleveland and Carlisle joined force with Mark Hanna and McKinley and formed the present Republican party. Unless the gold standard is more firmly fastened on the congress which meets in December it will never be fastened on the people in your day or mine.

"This is an important election. The Gage bill and the monetary bill of Indianapolis are before congress. If the Gage bill is passed it sooner or later means the retirement of the paper dollar, and the government will go out of the banking business and put the banks in the place of it.

"I know I am talking tonight in the best fixed city in the United States under Republican rule, where the policy of the Republican party has brought about the best possible condition. It was not the Dingley tariff bill that did it, and you would never have had your wages restored if you had been without that stalwart organization to enable you to demand your rights. The steel wages and tin wages in our county have been cut in two. I understand the money question and the tariff question, and am just as much a tariff man as ever if it can be operated on a gold standard basis. The conditions are now such that protection is a farce. I am a protection man, but I can't see how a protection man can be a gold standard man.

"The whole drift of affairs for the past 25 years has been to a worse condition. From 1850 to 1872 prices were going up and we had free trade and protection during that time with free trade a greater portion of the time. In 1849 gold was discovered in California and a few years later in Australia, and from 1850 to 1870 the greatest amount of gold of the age was produced and this was the cause of the raise in prices. Then came the blighting smooch, of the gold standard, and from 1872 to 1898 there has been one continued trend downward. If gold caused prices to go up why then should we wipe out one-half of our bimetallic money and intend to wipe it clear out in the payment of debts? The proposition pending before you is that legal tender money be disposed of and its place filled with notes issued by the banks. That is the Gage bill, and that will be passed if you send a Republican congressman, and it will result in the persistent ruin of the country.

"The greenbacks saved the Union during the Rebellion. When the capitol was in danger the greenbacks alone stood up, and we owe the same to Abraham Lincoln. In that time Chase was opposed to the greenbacks and called in the bankers, and they decided not to lend to the government. They sent in their proposition to Mr. Lincoln and he refused to accept it, and then they told him the capitol was in danger. He replied that the nation might as well be conquered by the confederates as by the money power of the country, and at once ordered the issue of greenbacks and we had 17,000,000 of them under his administration. Just as sure as Mr. Taylor is elected the greenbacks will be withdrawn before the next presidential election. That is the keynote of the campaign. They will do that if you endorse it, and you can't blame them. After it is done it will be too late to wake up. After the banks have been given the power you can't take it away from them. Until their time is out no power on earth except a revolution can take it away from them."

The speaker then launched into the midst of many figures to show that business was not as good now as it had been in the years from 1850 to 1872, and there had been more assignments in 1896, 1897 and 1898 in Stark county than in 1887 or 1888. He said the country was not marching to the front under the gold standard as the administration would have the people believe. He made a prophecy that work would never be better under a gold standard and the Gage bill meant going back to the old wildcat system when money died in a night.

The speaker closed by saying: "If a Republican congress is elected the greenbacks will go out and the power of issuing money will be given to the bank. If you believe in the greenback system and are opposed to the Gage bill you ought to vote against the Republican party and put this question off until 1900. If you are true to yourself and true to the country you will vote for the brave soldier and gallant Major Weybrecht for congress and against the gold standard."

A Brazilian Indian Story.

Here is a Brazilian Indian story, says the New York Times. The jaguar and the monkey met. The jaguar had a luscious bunch of plantains which the monkey craved. "I will gladly give you the plantains," said the jaguar, "providing you catch a fawn for me." "Agreed," cried the monkey. "But," added the jaguar, "if you don't get the fawn you must promise to let me bite a mouthful out of you." "Agreed," once more cried the gleeful monkey. The monkey ate the plantains, and the little matter about the fawn quite slipped his memory.

Then one day the jaguar met the monkey and insisted on taking his pay out of the monkey's hide. The business, becoming serious, was left to the peccari to decide. "It seems all right enough," said the peccari, "only this. How am I to determine what is the exact size of a jaguar's mouthful and where is he to bite? He had better refer the matter to the big snake." The big snake took the subject under consideration. His judgment was that he would have to swallow the jaguar, the monkey and the peccari. The jaguar and peccari he did at once assimilate, but the monkey, being nimble, escaped.

 The victory of the war belongs to no

 Everybody became disgusted because
 the administration did not favor freedom for Cuba, but wanted to establish a stable government without considering of a Cuban government. All the

 gress finally became tired of

 Cuban question has nothing to do with this question and ought not to be

 then why not make it so that all people
 may vote intelligently on it. Congress

 lars was voted the administration to use as they saw fit. Both parties were for war, and when it is said by some of the Republicans that there was any antagonism to the appropriation it is done to mislead the people.
 There was a difference of opinion as to how the money should be raised, and I am glad there was antagonism to the system adopted which places the burden on the people. The $200,000,000 bonds issued are useless, and every dollar of it is still in the treasury, none having been used, yet there is an interest of $6,000,000 a year to be paid. The idea of a great nation like the United States going to war with a bankrupt country like Spain
 and have to borrow money to do it. It is an insult to the American people. The issue of bonds was not necessary.
 Why did they not wait until the money was needed and then issue bonds
 if necessary? When war was declared
 there was $100,000,000 in the treasury
 tration, with a law bringing in $175-000,000 a year and $49,000,000 of silver in the treasury to be coined. They were pleaded with to coin the silver,
 but they refused to do it, because the money lenders of the country have the administration by the throat. I am willing to give the administration credit for all it has done in the interests of the American nation and flag.

"I have known President McKinley for years and when he was governor of the state he appointed me to the office
 of secretary of state to fill an unexpired term. I had been a Republican for years, and when the silver question came up I read all the gold standard argument in order to be better posted,
 and was struck with the fallacies of it.
 When the party decided in 1888 and 1892 in favor of gold and silver, and as late as 1890 I heard President McKinley denounce Grover Cleveland in a speech
 at Toledo for trying to force the gold standard on the people, I believed we stood on the same platform the same as we had stood for 20 years. When they tried to force the gold standard on
 leave the party and in 1896 came the parting of the ways. There is no Abrahham Lincoln Republican party in the country today. There is no Grover Cleveland Democratic party in the country today. In 1896 Grover Cleveland and Carlisle joined force with Mark Hanna and McKinley and formed
 the present Republican party. Unless the gold standard is more firmly fastened on the congress which meets in December it will never be fastened on the people in your day or mine.

"This is an important election. The

 dianapolis are before congress. If the Gage bill is passed it sooner or later
 means the retirement of the paper dollar, and the government will go out of the banking business and put the banks
 in the place of it.

"I know I am talking tonight in the best fixed city in the United States
 under Republican rule, where the policy of the Republican party has brought about the best possible condition.
 It was not the Dingley tariff bill that did it, and you would never have had your wages restored if you had been without that stalwart organization to enable you to demand your rights. The steel wages and tin wages in our county have been cut in two. I understand the money question and the tariff question,
 and am just as much a tariff man as ever if it can be operated on a gold standard basis. The conditions are now such that protection is a farce. I am a protection man, but I can't see how a protection man can be a gold standard

 man.

"The whole drift of affairs for the past 25 years has been to a worse condition. From 1850 to 1872 prices were going up and we had free trade and protection during that time with free trade

 gold was discovered in California and a few years later in Australia, and from 1850 to 1870 the greatest amount of gold
 of the age was produced and this was the cause of the raise in prices. Then came the blighting simoon of the gold standard, and from 1872 to 1898 there has been one continued trend downward. If gold caused prices to go up why then should we wipe out one-half of our bimetallic money and intend to wipe it clear out in the payment of debts? The proposition pending before you is that legal tender money be disposed of and its place filled with notes issued by the banks. That is the Gage bill, and that will be passed if you send a Republican congressman, and it will result in the persistent ruin of the country.

"The greenbacks saved the Union
 during the Rebellion. When the capitol was in danger the greenbacks alone stood up, and we owe the same to Abraham Lincoln. In that time Chase was opposed to the greenbacks and called in the bankers, and they decided not to lend to the government. They sent in their proposition to Mr. Lincoln and he refused to accept it, and then they told him the capitol was in danger. He replied that the nation might as well be conquered by the confederates as by the money power of the country, and at once ordered the issue of greenbacks
 and we had 17,000,000 of them under his administration. Just as sure as Mr.
 Tayler is elected the greenbacks will be withdrawn before the next presidential election. That is the keynote of the campaign. They will do that if you endorse it, and you can't blame them.
 After it is done it will be too late to wake up. After the banks have been given the power you can't take it away
 from them. Until their time is out no power on earth except a revolution can take it away from them."

The speaker then launched into the midst of many figures to show that business was not as good now as it had been in the years from 1850 to 1872, and there had been more assignments in 1896, 1897 and 1898 in Stark county than in 1887 or 1888. He said the country was not marching to the front under the gold standard as the administration would have the people believe. He made a prophecy that work would never be better under a gold standard
 and the Gage bill meant going back to the old wildcat system when money
 died in a night.

The speaker closed by saying: "If a Republican congress is elected the greenbacks will go out and the power of issuing money will be given to the bank. If you believe in the greenback system and are opposed to the Gage bill
 you ought to vote against the Republican party and put this question off until 1900. If you are true to yourself and true to the country you will vote for the brave soldier and gallant Major Weybrecht for congress and against the gold standard."

A Brazilian Indian Story.

Here is a Brazilian Indian story, says
 the New York Times. The jaguar and the monkey met. The jaguar had a luscious bunch of plantains which the monkey craved. "I will gladly give you
 the plantains," said the jaguar, "providing you catch a fawn for me."
 "Agreed," cried the monkey. "But,"
 added the jaguar, "if you don't get the fawn you must promise to let me bite a mouthful out of you." "Agreed," once more cried the gleeful monkey. The monkey ate the plantains, and the little matter about the fawn quite slipped his memory.

Then one day the jaguar met the monkey and insisted on taking his pay out of the monkey's hide. The business, becoming serious, was left to the pec-catori to decide. "It seems all right enough," said the peccatori, "only this.
 How am I to determine what is the exact size of a jaguar's mouthful and also where is he to bite? He had better refer the matter to the big snake." The big snake took the subject under consideration. His judgment was that he would have to swallow the jaguar, the monkey and the peccatori. The jaguar and peccari
 he did at once assimilate, but the monkey, being nimble, escaped.

When anybody in your house is sick
 you get the best doctor you know of,

 But when he writes the prescription

LISBON, Oct. 29.—[Special]—Last night Sheriff Gill received an execution from Wayne county to levy upon the property of M. J. Child. The judgment is for $7,130.60, and was taken yesterday at Wooster upon a judgment note given to J. B. Callahan, son-in-law of the missing cashier of the First National bank. No papers were left in the sheriff's office by which it could be determined when the note was given. The sheriff levied on eight pieces of property, he having discovered that Child owns that much more property than was previously attached. J. B. Callahan lives in Coshocton, but took the judgment in Wayne county because court was not in session in Coshocton county.

THE LAME WALK,

The Blind See, and the Deaf Are Made to Hear.

It is difficult to believe many of the reported cures performed in Doctor Larkins' office without medicine, but the most skeptical are convinced after staying a few hours in the office and talking with those who have been cured of the most dreadful diseases.

Yesterday a gentleman from Irondale told of two of these cases, one of whom had been crippled and in great pain for years. He stated that after three treatments from Doctor Larkins, without medicine, the pain all left and he walked forth a well man once more. He has since walked 16 miles in one day. One of the most remarkable features of these methods is that nearly all kinds of diseases yield to them. Many cases of catarrhal deafness and even blindness are readily cured.

NEW FIRE ESCAPE.

Spiral Shoot Down Which School Children Slide to the Ground.

The other day some 300 children of the Hancock school in Chicago shot through the new spiral metallic fire escape at the rate of 50 a minute. They all arrived at the bottom safe and sound and were clamorous for more trips. Architect Patton of the school department, several schoolteachers and two big policemen made the trip with almost as much enjoyment as the youngsters.

The occasion which afforded the Hancock scholars a taste of the joy of shooting the shoots was the test of a new cylindrical fire escape which the board of education is thinking of adopting for the 16 "one stairway" schools of the city. It is 6 feet in diameter, constructed entirely of steel. The spiral shoot winds round a heavy 3 inch standpipe. The escape is entered through large double doors at the various floors. The shoot is perfectly smooth and so arranged that the descent is made at a uniform speed. On entering the teacher or child has simply to sit down and slide to the bottom.

In the recent test 300 children were assembled on the second and third floors of the Hancock school. At a given signal the first child jumped into the shoot, and in less than six minutes the last had emerged at the bottom, anxious for more. The report of the test favors the shoot. —Chicago Post.

Her Ready Wit.

Though he had long adored her in secret—worshipped, in fact, the ground she pressed beneath the soles of her dainty little No. 3's—he had never yet been able to screw up sufficient courage to put his fate to the test. Poor fellow! He was one of those shy, modest, self-deprecating sort of chaps that are growing rapidly scarcer, or he would have tumbled months ago to the fact that he had only to go in and win. Gertrude Alicia knew the state of his feelings right enough, but it had pleased her hitherto to keep him dangling in attendance. At last, however, she made up her mind to land her fish as soon as a favorable chance presented itself.

And the opportunity came at the Smythingtons' little soiree, when the bashful swain, entering the conservatory, discovered his innamorata looking her loveliest amid the palms and flowers. "Are—are you alone?" he questioned timidly.

In a moment the fair and ready-witted girl saw her chance and took it then and there. "A loan, Hen—or—Mr. Finnikin," she said, with lowered eyelids, "a loan? Certainly not—I'm a gift."

And 15 minutes later, when they emerged from their retreat, Henry was asking himself how he could have been such a Juggins as to postpone his happiness so long. —Kansas City Journal.

A Horse's Skull as a Rabbit Trap.

Charles Conroy of Aurora, Ind., while hunting, made a most peculiar find. Discovering the detached skull of the skeleton of a horse, he gave it a kick that rolled it over, revealing in the cavity of the skull the corpse of a rabbit. A further investigation disclosed the fact that the rabbit had entered the hollow skull as a place of retreat, but in doing so dislodged a piece of the vertebra bone of the horse's skeleton, which lodged in the opening through which it had crawled, and completely closed the exit and made the rabbit a prisoner in its bony sepulcher, where it was kept confined until starvation brought death. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Dividends Out of Life.

The fools who give the 24 hours to business and boast of it may criticize the man who can expel business from his mind and enjoy his books, his friends, his club, the theater, the opera, the dinner or the dance, but the cheerful man gets dividends out of life where the other gets trouble. —Chauncey M. On the River.

As the weather continues dry, so will the river continue to fall. Only a fall of a little over six feet has been seen since the river commenced to recede and the marks at the wharf this morning registered 9.5 feet, and falling very slowly.

The Greenwood and Cummings passed down last night, and the Lorena and Virginia will be down tonight. The regular Sunday boats Keystone, Ben Hur and Kanawha will be up tomorrow.

NEW FIRE ESCAPE.

Spiral Shoot Down Which School Children Slide to the Ground.

The other day some 300 children of the Hancock school in Chicago shot through the new spiral metallic fire escape at the rate of 50 a minute. They all arrived at the bottom safe and sound and were clamorous for more trips. Architect Patton of the school department, several schoolteachers and two big policemen made the trip with almost as much enjoyment as the youngsters.

The occasion which afforded the Hancock scholars a taste of the joy of shooting the shoots was the test of a new cylindrical fire escape which the board of education is thinking of adopting for the 16 "one stairway" schools of the city. It is 6 feet in diameter, constructed entirely of steel. The spiral shoot winds round a heavy 3 inch standpipe. The escape is entered through large double doors at the various floors. The shoot is perfectly smooth and so arranged that the descent is made at a uniform speed. On entering the teacher or child has simply to sit down and slide to the bottom.

In the recent test 300 children were assembled on the second and third floors of the Hancock school. At a given signal the first child jumped into the shoot, and in less than six minutes the last had emerged at the bottom, anxious for more. The report of the test favors the shoot. —Chicago Post.

Her Ready Wit.

Though he had long adored her in secret—worshipped, in fact, the ground she pressed beneath the soles of her dainty little No. 3's—he had never yet been able to screw up sufficient courage to put his fate to the test. Poor fellow! He was one of those shy, modest, self-depreciating sort of chaps that are growing rapidly scarcer, or he would have tumbled months ago to the fact that he had only to go in and win. Gertrude Alicia knew the state of his feelings right enough, but it had pleased her hitherto to keep him dangling in attendance. At last, however, she made up her mind to land her fish as soon as a favorable chance presented itself.

And the opportunity came at the Smythingtons' little soiree, when the bashful swain, entering the conservatory, discovered his innamorata looking her loveliest amid the palms and flowers. "Are—are you alone?" he questioned timidly.

In a moment the fair and ready-witted girl saw her chance and took it then and there. "A loan, Hen—or—Mr. Finnikin," she said, with lowered eyelids, "a loan? Certainly not—I'm a gift."

And 15 minutes later, when they emerged from their retreat, Henry was asking himself how he could have been such a Juggins as to postpone his happiness so long. —Kansas City Journal.

A Horse's Skull as a Rabbit Trap.

Charles Conroy of Aurora, Ind., while hunting, made a most peculiar find. Discovering the detached skull of the skeleton of a horse, he gave it a kick that rolled it over, revealing in the cavity of the skull the corpse of a rabbit. A further investigation disclosed the fact that the rabbit had entered the hollow skull as a place of retreat, but in doing so dislodged a piece of the vertebra bone of the horse's skeleton, which lodged in the opening through which it had crawled, and completely closed the exit and made the rabbit a prisoner in its bony sepulcher, where it was kept confined until starvation brought death. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

The fools who give the 24 hours to business and boast of it may criticize the man who can expel business from his mind and enjoy his books, his friends, his club, the theater, the opera, the dinner or the dance, but the cheerful man gets dividends out of life where the other gets trouble. —Chancey M. Depew.

CAREY'S GOOD FIELDING

Places Him Near the Head of the List.

NOT SO GOOD WITH THE BAT

Mercer Appears Well with the Published Averages—A Lively Football Game For the Benefit of an Injured Player Drew a Crowd to Colombian Park.

The official averages of the Western league published this week place George Carey sixty-third in batting, with a record of 420 times at bat, 64 runs, 106 hits, 165 total bases, nine sacrifice hits, six stolen bases, and an average of .252. In fielding he stands second among the first basemen, and is but one point behind Motz, who leads with a per cent of .986. The record of Toadix is as follows: Games, 107; putouts, 1,190; assists, 39; errors, 18; average, .985.

In the pitchers of the league Winnie Mercer is in 50th place with 12 games won and 16 lost, giving him an average of .429. In batting he is tied for ninth place, and his record is 73 games at bat, 242 times; runs, 38; hits, 81; average, .334; total bases, 100; sacrifice hits, 9; stolen bases, 14. At short he has an average of .860, and in middle field of .902.

Sporting Life this week says: "Both McGuire and Mercer make no bones of saying they would like to get away from Washington. Mercer expresses preference for Chicago, but would have no objection to Cincinnati. He says his pitching arm is as good as ever, and that he expects next season to be in his best form."

The football game yesterday afternoon between the high school eleven and the Indians drew a large crowd, and the game resulted in a tie, 5 to 5. The high school boys played the best game, but the Indians were too heavy for them. The features were the tackling of Will Hall and a 65 yard run by Clinton. The elevens will play another game in the near future.

PLAYING FOOTBALL

Was a Young Man in a Sleeping Car.

A well known manufacturer who recently returned from a trip to the south, relates an incident which is, to say the least, seasonable.

The train was speeding north between Cincinnati and Columbus and almost all the occupants of the car were in their berths when he went for a drink, and found that something unusual had happened. He did not investigate, but learned from the porter that a young college man on the train had been playing football in his sleep. He had been found with both feet thrust through the broken window pane and his legs and body frightfully out. Fortunately two physicians were on the train or he would have died from loss of blood. The young man pleaded so that his name should not find its way to the newspapers that the accident passed without publication. He admitted that he dreamed of playing football, and had his arms not been akimbo he would have gone out of the window to his death.

Lesson For the Week Beginning Oct. 30. Comment by Rev. W. J. Yates, A. M. Topic, The Call of Elisha.

SCRIPTURE READING.—I Kings xix, 19-21.

To be thoroughly effective the work of an Elijah must be followed and continued by that of an Elisha. Undoubtedly the more striking personality and more dramatic incidents belong to the Master. His is a unique figure in all history. No other one like Him stalks across the pathway of kings. Many great prophets and earnest reformers have the ages known, but only one Elijah the Tishbite. Corruption is no stranger in the courts of kings in ancient or in modern times, but the world has had only one Ahab and one Jezebel. For a bulwark against fraud, lust, perjury, slander, impiety and murder such a rugged character as the fiery prophet was needed. But all that master and pupil can do is to avert disaster to the nation, they cannot avert the doom because they cannot eradicate the evil virus of wickedness from the hearts and lives of the people. Jehu can be anointed in place of Ahab, and Hazael in room of Benhadad, and Jezebel's rule may come to a sudden end, but the disease is too deep seated for a speedy cure.

To espouse the cause of the prophet was to incur deep hatred of the rulers and scant love from the people. Elisha was in circumstances of ease if not of affluence, otherwise he could not have had 12 yoke of oxen plowing and could not have afforded a sacrifice so costly as a yoke of oxen for a feast. It was hazardous as well as expensive for him to become servant and successor of Elijah. No brilliant career opened to him if he accepted the call. Scorn, opposition and persecution confronted him. But he was of the stuff of which heroes are made and obeyed the call. His was a temper of mind utterly incomprehensible to the man of the world. It was the mind of Abraham, who heeded God's call. It was of the style of Moses and Caleb and Joshua. It was the mind of Jesus Christ.

Something of this same spirit dwells in all men who prefer honor to honors. It is the spirit of Savonarola, Luther, Knox and Wesley. It is the kingly soul needing no earthly crown and purple, but living the royal life in all places and times. "He arose and went after Elijah and ministered to him."

What Are You Reading?

What one reads forms character as quickly and inevitably as what one eats makes blood and muscle. Care in selection of one's reading is more necessary than care in what one drinks. In the Cuban campaign our troops were warned to drink no water that had not first been boiled. Yellow and typhoid fevers result from drinking marsh water. More deadly are the moral germs in much of literature. Loss of appetite for the pure and helpful, weakness of spiritual life and positive wickedness in many cases can be traced directly to a book, a paper or a magazine article. Fifteen minutes' sleep in a fever swamp will wreck the strongest constitution oftentimes. Fifteen minutes with a bad book has started many a soul on a career of evil.

In food eat only the most nutritious. In books read only the most helpful. Not what you like, but what you need, should be the rule of selection. Fiction of some kinds has a helpful influence. To read all fiction is a serious mistake. Travel, history, biography, science, poetry, all should have a share of attention. Every one should read the great masterpieces of the world's best literature. Read for information, for facts and principles, read to know human nature, physical nature and the Divine nature. Read to know the world you live in, to know yourself and to make a world in which to live hereafter, a broader, fuller, deeper, sweeter life.

Taste and Relish.

These are not the same, but are closely related—in fact, are twin sisters. They grow strong together and grow beautiful and helpful or ugly and hurtful according to the food given them. So many have no hearty relish for religious work, were never gifted in speech, in prayer, in visiting the sick, in giving of money or time or anything to others, have no relish for Bible study or company of religious persons. What is the trouble? A very simple thing. They never cultivated the taste for the pure, the good, the godly. They preferred the taste of self indulgence to that of self denial and have cultivated it till there can be no relish for the other.

Taste is to be cultivated. Most tastes are acquired, few good ones are instinctive. One has to learn what is good by a variety of tests, then he learns the taste of it. At first it may not be specially agreeable, but it is wholesome. Eat till the taste be formed rightly, then comes relish. After that the taste can be trusted to help guide in selection of the good things, and "good digestion waits on appetite."

One of the most pernicious falsities is the idea that pleasantness is a test of goodness. Not all poison is bitter or sour. Many things sweet are harmful. Taste is to be trusted as a guide only when rigidly educated.

Brothers.

Oh, Englishmen, in hope and creed, In blood and tongue, our brothers! We, too, are heirs of Runnymede.

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others? The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped in the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

CUSTOM TAILORS' LABEL.

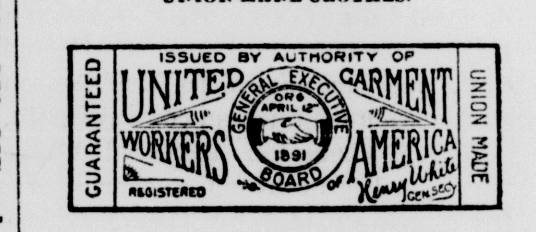

The Journeymen Tailors' Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under-side of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

UNION MADE HATS.

This Label is about an inch and a half square, and is printed on buff-colored paper. It is placed on every union-made hat before it leaves the workman's hands. If a dealer takes a label from one hat and places it in another, or has any detached labels in his store, do not buy from him, as his lab is may be counterfeit, and his hats may be the product of scab or non-union labor.

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

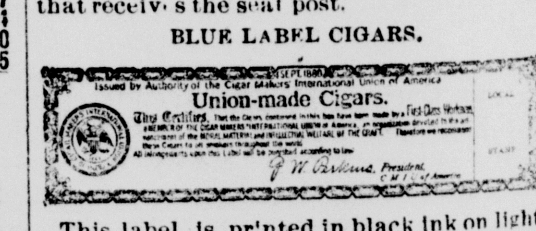

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

BICYCLE LABEL.

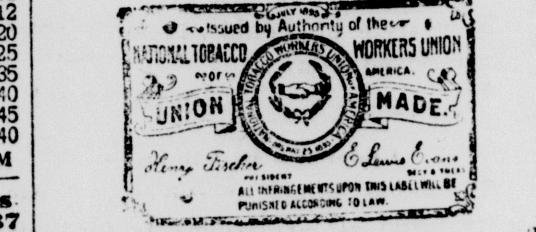

"Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." You will endorse the "Golden Rule" by buying and riding bicycles bearing this label. The colors are as follows: The Union shield is in red, white and blue, on a background of pea green, bordered by gold. The Label will be placed on the upper front side of the tube that receives the seat post.

BLUE LABEL CIGARS.

This label is printed in black ink on light blue paper, and is pasted on the clear-top. Don't mix it up with the U. S. revenue label on the box, as the latter is nearly of a similar color.

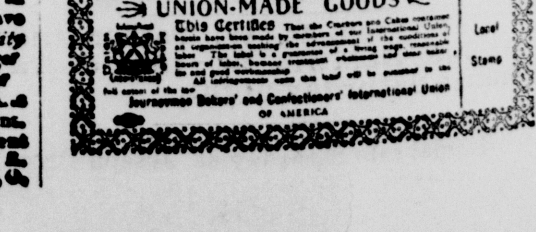

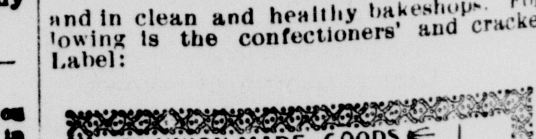

TOBACCO LABEL.

UNION BREAD AND CRACKERS.

This is a full size facsimile of the label of the Bakers' and Confectioners' union. It is printed on fine white paper and is pasted on each loaf of union-made bread. It is an evidence that the bread is made under fair and wholesome conditions, and in clean and healthy bakeries. Following is the confectioners' and cracker label:

At short he has an average of .860, and in middle field of .902.

Sporting Life this week says: "Both McGuire and Mercer make no bones of saying they would like to get away from Washington. Mercer expresses preference for Chicago, but would have no objection to Cincinnati. He says his pitching arm is as good as ever, and that he expects next season to be in his best form."

The football game yesterday afternoon between the high school eleven and the Indians drew a large crowd, and the game resulted in a tie, 5 to 5. The high school boys played the best game, but the Indians were too heavy for them. The features were the tackling of Will Hall and a 65 yard run by Clinton. The elevens will play another game in the near future.

PLAYING FOOTBALL

Was a Young Man in a Sleeping Car.

A well known manufacturer who recently returned from a trip to the south, relates an incident which is, to say the least, seasonable.

The train was speeding north between Cincinnati and Columbus and almost all the occupants of the car were in their berths when he went for a drink, and found that something unusual had happened. He did not investigate, but learned from the porter that a young college man on the train had been playing football in his sleep. He had been found with both feet thrust through the broken window pane and his legs and body frightfully out. Fortunately two physicians were on the train or he would have died from loss of blood. The young man pleaded so that his name should not find its way to the newspapers that the accident passed without publication. He admitted that he dreamed of playing football, and had his arms not been akimbo he would have gone out of the window to his death.

Lesson For the Week Beginning Oct. 30.

Comment by Rev. W. J. Yates, A. M. Topic, The Call of Elisha.

SCRIPTURE READING.—I Kings xii, 19-21. To be thoroughly effective the work of an Elisha must be followed and continued by that of an Elisha. Undoubtedly the more striking personality and more dramatic incidents belong to the Master. His is a unique figure in all history. No other one like Him stalks across the pathway of kings. Many great prophets and earnest reformers have the ages known, but only one Elisha the Tishbite. Corruption is no stranger in the courts of kings in ancient or in modern times, but the world has had only one Ahab and one Jezebel. For a bulwark against fraud, lust, perjury, slander, impiety and murder such a rugged character as the fiery prophet was needed. But all that master and pupil can do is to delay disaster to the nation, they cannot avert the doom because they cannot eradicate the evil virus of wickedness from the hearts and lives of the people. Jehu can be anointed in place of Ahab, and Hazael in room of Benhadad, and Jezebel's rule may come to a sudden end, but the disease is too deep seated for a speedy cure.

To espouse the cause of the prophet was to incur deep hatred of the rulers and scant love from the people. Elisha was in circumstances of ease if not of affluence, otherwise he could not have had 12 yoke of oxen plowing and could not have afforded a sacrifice so costly as a yoke of oxen for a feast. It was hazardous as well as expensive for him to become servant and successor of Elisha. No brilliant career opened to him if he accepted the call. Scorn, opposition and persecution confronted him. But he was of the stuff of which heroes are made and obeyed the call. His was a temper of mind utterly incomprehensible to the man of the world. It was the mind of Abraham, who heeded God's call. It was of the style of Moses and Caleb and Joshua. It was the mind of Jesus Christ.

Something of this same spirit dwells in all men who prefer honor to honors. It is the spirit of Savonarola, Luther, Knox and Wesley. It is the kingly soul needing no earthly crown and purple, but living the royal life in all places and times. "He arose and went after Elisha and ministered to him."

What Are You Reading?

What one reads forms character as quickly and inevitably as what one eats makes blood and muscle. Care in selection of one's reading is more necessary than care in what one drinks. In the Cuban campaign our troops were warned to drink no water that had not first been boiled. Yellow and typhoid fevers result from drinking marsh water. More deadly are the moral germs in much of literature. Loss of appetite for the pure and helpful, weakness of spiritual life and positive wickedness in many cases can be traced directly to a book, a paper or a magazine article. Fifteen minutes' sleep in a fever swamp will wreck the strongest constitution oftentimes. Fifteen minutes with a bad book has started many a soul on a career of evil.

In food eat only the most nutritious. In books read only the most helpful. Not what you like, but what you need, should be the rule of selection. Fiction of some kinds has a helpful influence. To read all fiction is a serious mistake. Travel, history, biography, science, poetry, all should have a share of attention. Every one should read the great masterpieces of the world's best literature. Read for information, for facts and principles, read to know human nature, physical nature and the Divine nature. Read to know the world you live in, to know yourself and to make a world in which to live hereafter, a broader, fuller, deeper, sweeter life.

Taste and Relish.

These are not the same, but are closely related—in fact, are twin sisters. They grow strong together and grow beautiful and helpful or ugly and hurtful according to the food given them. So many have no hearty relish for religious work, were never gifted in speech, in prayer, in visiting the sick, in giving of money or time or anything to others, have no relish for Bible study or company of religious persons. What is the trouble? A very simple thing. They never cultivated the taste for the pure, the good, the godly. They preferred the taste of self indulgence to that of self denial and have cultivated it till there can be no relish for the other.

Taste is to be cultivated. Most tastes are acquired, few good ones are instinctive. One has to learn what is good by a variety of tests, then he learns the taste of it. At first it may not be specially agreeable, but it is wholesome. Eat till the taste be formed rightly, then comes relish. After that the taste can be trusted to help guide in selection of the good things, and "good digestion waits on appetite."

One of the most pernicious falsities is the idea that pleasantness is a test of goodness. Not all poison is bitter or sour. Many things sweet are harmful. Taste is to be trusted as a guide only when rigidly educated.

Oh, Englishmen, in hope and creed, In blood and tongue, our brothers! We, too, are heirs of Runnymede.

The New York court of appeals has recently handed down a decision of the greatest interest to every part of the United States. This declares that the surplus of the savings banks, amounting in New York to $100,000,000, is not liable to taxation, reaching in this case the annual saving to the depositors of $1,500,000. The decision is made on the ground that the surplus does not belong to the bank, but to the depositors as a contingent fund to be paid to them under certain conditions, being of the nature of the reserve fund of an insurance company, an ultimate protection against possible losses. So that the word "deposits" used in the statute of exemption must be construed to cover also any surplus. The same principles which govern this question in New York rule its operation in every state, and this precedent ruling by the New York court will have great weight in determining a universal application.

Conquest by the agency of the Spanish war has added eight new warships to the American navy, seven of which are already flying the American flag in active service. Five are attached to Admiral Dewey's squadron, two are on the north Atlantic station and one, the cruiser Infanta Maria Teresa, raised by Hobson from a watery tomb, will soon be at Newport News. There is still hope that another salvage of one of the Cervera ships may be made. The Maria Teresa will be completely equipped with guns and other fittings saved from the Spanish wrecks and will be in every way a standing trophy of Sampson's and Schley's victory. She will be, by and by, one of the most powerful ships in the American navy, with men behind the guns to make that power effective.

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others? The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

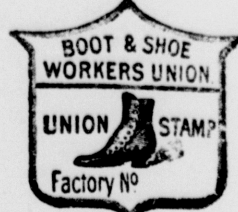

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card. Ask for it when making your purchases. Endorsed by the A. F. of L.

ONE-THIRD ACTUAL SIZE. COLOR IS CHANGED EACH QUARTER. Good only during months named in lower left hand corner and when properly signed, and STAMPED with the number of the Local.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped in the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

CUSTOM TAILORS' LABEL.

The Journeymen Tailor's Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under side of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

UNION MADE HATS.

This Label is about an inch and a half square, and is printed on buff-colored paper. It is placed on every union made hat before it leaves the workman's hands. If a dealer takes a label from one hat and places it on another, or has any detached labels in his store, do not buy from him, as his labors may be the product of scab or non-union labor.

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

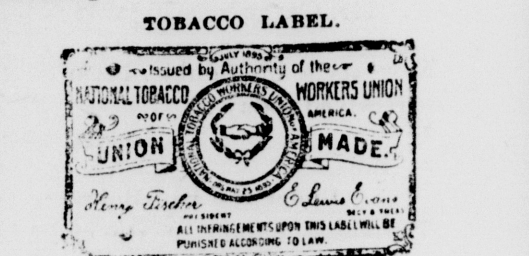

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

BICYCLE LABEL.

"Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." You will endorse the "Golden Rule" by buying and riding bicycles bearing this label. The colors are as follows: The Union shield is in red, white and blue, on a background of pea green, bordered by gold. The Label will be placed on the upper front side of the tube that receives the seat post.

BLUE LABEL CIGARS.

This label is printed in black ink on light blue paper, and is pasted on the clear-top box, as the latter is nearly of a similar color.

TOBACCO LABEL.

UNION BREAD AND CRACKERS.

This is a full size facsimile of the Label of the Bakers' and Confectioners' union. It is printed on fine white paper and is pasted on each loaf of union-made bread. It is an evidence that the bread is made under fair and wholesome conditions, and in clean and healthy bakeries. Following is the confectioners' and cracker Label:

PROJECT FARTHER EXPLAINED

J. L. Francis Addressed the Railroad Meeting at City Hall Last Night, Showing What Shippers Could Expect in Return For Their Subscriptions.

The meeting held at city hall last night in the interests of the Liverpool and Lisbon railroad project was productive of good results.

A large number of the general committee appointed Wednesday afternoon were present. The organization resulted in the election of Robert Burford as permanent chairman and F. H. Croxall as permanent secretary.

The chair asked Mr. Francis to review the project. He said in part:

"The amount of coal which we expect to mine after everything is in working order will be at least 300 tons every day. There is to be no money paid in advance for this project, but, as according to the subscription papers, the amount is to be paid after the road is in working order."

Mr. McNicol asked why the same proposition had not been made to the people of Liverpool as to those in Lisbon, the payment of the money as follows: Fifty per cent in six months and the balance in four and two months.

Mr. Francis answered by saying that no proposition of that character had been made.

A letter from N. G. Macrum declining to serve on the general committee on account of illness was read and his declination was accepted.

The following were then added to the general committee: D. F. Nellis, J. E. McDonald, John Steel, William Polk and Samuel Eardly.

The committee appointed at the joint meeting of the board of trade last Monday night was made an executive committee. The committee will meet within a few days for the purpose of preparing districts in which the committee can work.

Mr. Francis stated that the manufacturer who subscribed any amount of money would be given a traffic certificate. This was explained by the statement that the shipper would receive a rebate of 10 per cent off his freight bill and 10 per cent off fuel bills. The traffic certificates are to be non-negotiable.

"If the committee will furnish the means for the printing of 1,000-mile books the traveling public, or those contributing small sums, will receive something for their money, the same as the manufacturer. When the committee starts its work you can tell the public that if the $60,000 is raised the road will be built, and if the amount is not forthcoming the road will not be built."

After further discussion the chair, secretary and S. J. Cripps were appointed a committee to confer with Mr. Francis for the purpose of preparing the subscription papers and to arrange the traffic matters.

J. E. McDonald was called upon to make a few remarks, and said he was heartily in favor of the scheme, and after the road is built those who contribute money will receive it again within a few years. "As I understand the matter the money which is now to be subscribed is merely a loan, as the rebate secures the subscriber. If this road is built there will be, and you will see that I am right, more than one manufacturing plant come to our city."

Mayor Bough in speaking on the subject said: "This is a golden opportunity for Liverpool to get a railroad. With the rebate on the passenger and freight traffic I do not think it will be hard for this committee to raise $60,000 or even $100,000. The people of West Point are anxious for the road to be built, and want to see it built as soon as possible."

Councilman Stewart wanted to know when the subscription papers would be given out and the work classified. The chair advised the gentleman that this matter would be settled at the next meeting.

The meeting adjourned until next Tuesday evening.

BUSINESS AFFECTED.

War Rumors Abroad Raised Wheat Prices, but Later Dropped—Condition of Wool and Iron.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, said in part: "Lumber has been more affected by foreign affairs than many realize. London's apprehension of war first caused advance in wheat and fears in money pressure here. Then came confidence in London with a flight of French money across the channel and stock markets advanced while wheat fell. Mobs in Paris did not mean to influence American interests from New York to San Francisco, but electric wires have made the world small. So the war moved a cargo of wheat from the Pacific coast, started $2,500,000 more gold from Australia to this country on London account, and the selling of American securities one day and buying the next."

There has been no domestic change of much importance and the rise in prices of western railroad stocks indicate that the supreme court decision against the trunk line association is considered helpful to railroads.

Wheat rose 3 cents from Friday to Monday and then fell 4½ cents to Friday. Corn refused to follow wheat, but slightly advanced.

Wool dealers have reached the conclusion that, with the heavy stocks on hand, it is no longer a question of profit, but of avoiding losses and concessions have brought a big increase in sales for the week.

Now Ohio holders are asking 2 to 3 cents less than a month ago, having 75 per cent of fine and 40 per cent of medium wool yet on hand, while 10,000 bales of wool are offered to foreign bidders, who may decide to export it. Colder weather has made somewhat more demand for goods and yet not enough to change the situation materially.

The iron manufacture has still a good demand, late as it is, but the makers are depressing prices by bidding against each other, although in the average of all quotations the decline has been less than half of 1 per cent from the highest point. But the wire nail manufacturers have reduced prices 5 per cent and the rail manufacturers, according to current reports, have decided not to advance prices, and there is a prospect that heavy demand for products will be further encouraged by the later quotations.

Failures for the week have been 226 in the United States against 219 last year, and 24 in Canada against 25 last year.

INCREASED THE PRICE.

Manufacturers of Galvanized Wire Advanced on This Product.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 29.—The manufacturers of galvanized wire have increased the price on their product $1 per ton. Manager DeForest of the American Steel and Wire company said:

"Representatives of all the manufacturers of wire held a meeting in Pittsburgh, a few days ago, and decided upon an increase of $1 per ton on galvanized wire. The increase was made necessary by the scarcity of zinc. Another meeting will be held in Pittsburgh about Nov. 1. The prices of wire and wire nails will be advanced at that meeting. I cannot say how much that increase will be."

Colonel Bryan Better.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 29.—Colonel W. J. Bryan, who has been ill at his hotel since his arrival here, is much improved. The corps surgeon says that he has a slight form of typhoid fever.

Impracticable to Raise Gunboats.

MANZANILLO, Oct. 29.—Lieutenant Victor Blue, who has been inspecting the wrecks of the Spanish gunboats, considers it quite impracticable to raise them.

GOING HOME TO VOTE.

Fourteenth and Fifteenth Pennsylvania and Tenth Ohio Expected to Do So.

CAMP MEADE, MIDDLETOWN, Pa., Oct. 29.—The Comp Meade soldiers have returned from Philadelphia.

The Fourteenth and Fifteenth Pennsylvania regiments, about which there has been so much uncertainty regarding their muster out, will be sent home about Nov. 6 to give the men an opportunity to vote. It is expected the Tenth Ohio will also be sent home about that time.

Twenty-four patients were sent to Philadelphia and 12 to Chester, and but few remain in the camp hospitals.

Clothespins.

Clothespins are an American commodity. Some clothespins are made in Sweden and in Scotland, but they are big and clumsy, twice the size of the American pins and whittled out by hand. Clothespins are made chiefly of beech and of maple, but some are made of tupelo wood. They are made entirely by machinery, counted into boxes containing 720 each by machinery, and the boxes are nailed up by machinery. It might almost be said that blocks of wood fed to machines at one end come out boxed clothespins at the other. They are made and sold wonderfully cheap.

There are two grades of clothespins, firsts and seconds. First grade pins can be bought for 35 cents a box. The production of clothespins is enormous, millions of boxes annually. The consumption in this country keeps pace with the growth of the population, and great numbers are exported. Even people in the trade wonder what becomes of all the clothespins.

As late as 1682 squirts or syringes were used for extinguishing fire in England, and their length did not exceed two or three feet, with pipes of leather. Water tight seamless hose was first made in Bethnal Green in 1720.

PROJECT FARTHER EXPLAINED

J. L. Francis Addressed the Railroad Meeting at City Hall Last Night, Showing What Shippers Could Expect in Return For Their Subscriptions.

The meeting held at city hall last night in the interests of the Liverpool and Lisbon railroad project was productive of good results.

A large number of the general committee appointed Wednesday afternoon were present. The organization resulted in the election of Robert Burford as permanent chairman and F. H. Croxall as permanent secretary.

The chair asked Mr. Francis to review the project. He said in part:

"The amount of coal which we expect to mine after everything is in working order will be at least 300 tons every day. There is to be no money paid in advance for this project, but, as according to the subscription papers, the amount is to be paid after the road is in working order."

Mr. McNicol asked why the same proposition had not been made to the people of Liverpool as to those in Lisbon, the payment of the money as follows: Fifty per cent in six months and the balance in four and two months.

Mr. Francis answered by saying that no proposition of that character had been made.

A letter from N. G. Macrum declining to serve on the general committee on account of illness was read and his declination was accepted.

The following were then added to the general committee: D. F. Nellis, J. E. McDonald, John Steel, William Polk and Samuel Eardly.

The committee appointed at the joint meeting of the board of trade last Monday night was made an executive committee. The committee will meet within a few days for the purpose of preparing districts in which the committee can work.

Mr. Francis stated that the manufacturer who subscribed any amount of money would be given a traffic certificate. This was explained by the statement that the shipper would receive a rebate of 10 per cent off his freight bill and 10 per cent off fuel bills. The traffic certificates are to be non-negotiable.

"If the committee will furnish the means for the printing of 1,000-mile books the traveling public, or those contributing small sums, will receive something for their money, the same as the manufacturer. When the committee starts its work you can tell the public that if the $60,000 is raised the road will be built, and if the amount is not forthcoming the road will not be built."

After further discussion the chair, secretary and S. J. Cripps were appointed a committee to confer with Mr. Francis for the purpose of preparing the subscription papers and to arrange the traffic matters.

J. E. McDonald was called upon to make a few remarks, and said he was heartily in favor of the scheme, and after the road is built those who contribute money will receive it again within a few years. "As I understand the matter the money which is now to be subscribed is merely a loan, as the rebate secures the subscriber. If this road is built there will be, and you will see that I am right, more than one manufacturing plant come to our city."

Mayor Bough in speaking on the subject said: "This is a golden opportunity for Liverpool to get a railroad. With the rebate on the passenger and freight traffic I do not think it will be hard for this committee to raise $60,000 or even $100,000. The people of West Point are anxious for the road to be built, and want to see it built as soon as possible."

Councilman Stewart wanted to know when the subscription papers would be given out and the work classified. The chair advised the gentleman that this matter would be settled at the next meeting.

The meeting adjourned until next Tuesday evening.

BUSINESS AFFECTED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, said in part: "Lunatic has been more affected by foreign affairs than many realize. London's apprehension of war first caused advance in wheat and fears in money pressure here. Then came confidence in London with a flight of French money across the channel and stock markets advanced while wheat fell. Mobs in Paris did not mean to influence American interests from New York to San Francisco, but electric wires have made the world small. So the war moved a cargo of wheat from the Pacific coast, started $2,500,000 more gold from Australia to this country on London account, and the selling of American securities one day and buying the next."

There has been no domestic change of much importance and the rise in prices of western railroad stocks indicate that the supreme court decision against the trunk line association is considered helpful to railroads.

Wheat rose 3 cents from Friday to Monday and then fell 4½ cents to Friday. Corn refused to follow wheat, but slightly advanced.

Wool dealers have reached the conclusion that, with the heavy stocks on hand, it is no longer a question of profit, but of avoiding losses and concessions have brought a big increase in sales for the week.

Now Ohio holders are asking 2 to 3 cents less than a month ago, having 75 per cent of fine and 40 per cent of medium wool yet on hand, while 10,000 bales of wool are offered to foreign buyers, who may decide to export it. Colder weather has made somewhat more demand for goods and yet not enough to change the situation materially.

The iron manufacture has still a good demand, late as it is, but the makers are depressing prices by bidding against each other, although in the average of all quotations the decline has been less than half of 1 per cent from the highest point. But the wire nail manufacturers have reduced prices 5 per cent and the rail manufacturers, according to current reports, have decided not to advance prices, and there is a prospect that heavy demand for products will be further encouraged by the later quotations.

Failures for the week have been 226 in the United States against 219 last year, and 24 in Canada against 25 last year.

INCREASED THE PRICE.

Manufacturers of Galvanized Wire Advanced on This Product.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 29.—The manufacturers of galvanized wire have increased the price on their product $1 per ton. Manager DeForest of the American Steel and Wire company said:

"Representatives of all the manufacturers of wire held a meeting in Pittsburgh, a few days ago, and decided upon an increase of $1 per ton on galvanized wire. The increase was made necessary by the scarcity of zinc. Another meeting will be held in Pittsburgh about Nov. 1. The prices of wire and wire nails will be advanced at that meeting. I cannot say how much that increase will be."

CAMPOS BORE PAPERS.

SON OF RIOS GONE TO MADRID.

American Commissioners Expected to Present Memorandum on the Philippines to the Spanish Monday—Said in Washington All Islands to Be Held.

MADRID, Oct. 29.—Marshall Martinez Campos, after an audience with the queen regent and a prolonged conference with the minister of finance, Senor Puigcerver, left for Paris with important papers for the Spanish peace commissioners.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—A son of Senor Montero Rios, who is an attache of the Spanish peace commission, went to Madrid and will have a conference with the government.

The American peace commissioners at their sessions drew up a memorandum on the subject of the Philippine islands which it is expected they will place before the Spanish commissioners at the joint session which is to take place on Monday next.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The president was enabled to lay before the cabinet very encouraging reports from Paris regarding the progress of the peace negotiations. The administration now fully believes that the negotiations will be concluded much sooner than was expected from the outlook a few days ago. It can be stated authoritatively that the commissioners have not yet actually begun the discussion of the Philippine question, and further, that it will not be taken up until next week. Since the Spaniards have found that the American commissioners mean exactly what they say, and that their presentation of the side of the United States is in reality an ultimatum, the uselessness of prolonged debate, it is said, has become apparent to the Spaniards, and it is now believed the Philippine discussion will be less protracted than reported some days ago.

Although the members of the cabinet are extremely reticent on the subject of the acquisition of the Philippines, there is now little or no doubt that nothing less than the cession of the entire group of islands will be accepted by the American commissioners.

The United States has not assumed nor guaranteed the so-called municipal debt of Cuba or Cuban municipalities, but it is expected that such debts will be paid by the municipalities incurring them, for by no reasoning could they be charged upon Spain. Our government, it is said in official circles, would look upon any attempt at evading the payments of such debts as repudiation and dishonest, and whatever government is established in Cuba will be expected to see that these obligations are carried out in good faith. Moreover some of the bonds of Cuban municipalities are held by citizens of the United States and the United States might insist that the investments of her citizens in such securities are made good.

WANT THE PHILIPPINES.

Executive Committee of M. E. Woman's Foreign Missionary Society So Indicated at Its Meeting.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 29.—The executive committee of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church continued in session with increased attendance. The most significant action of the day was the introduction of a memorial by the New England branch providing that an appropriation be made for work in the Philippine islands to be available in case the islands shall be "provisionally opened to the society." The memorial was well received, and there was no mistaking the feeling of the delegates on the question of the retention of the islands.

It was agreed that the memorial be referred to a special committee, which will be announced by the president.

TWO MORE DEAD.

General Brooke Sends Word of Deaths in Porto Rico.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The following dispatch from Major General Brooke has been received at the war department:

SAN JUAN, Oct. 28. Died Oct. 27.—Private Peter Nolan, Company L, Third Wisconsin, typhoid; Private Homer M. Bailey, Company B, First Kentucky, typhoid; Private Talma, reported 20th, belongs to Company G, not Company H, Nineteenth infantry.

WAR INVESTIGATORS' JAUNT.

They May Go to Cuba and Porto Rico. Visited Chickamauga.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—A letter received here from a member of the war department investigation commission, now in the south, conveys the information that the members think they may be able to reach the city from their present tour about Nov. 4. It has been reported that the commission may afterwards visit Santiago and Porto Rico.

This will be settled definitely after its return to the city.

CHICKAMAUGA PARK, Oct. 29.—The war commission's special train ran down here and the commission immediately began the inspection of the site of Camp Thomas, which is now practically abandoned as a military camp.

Among others Dr. Charles F. Craig, bacteriologist of the Sternberg hospital, was examined. He expressed the opinion that the water taken from Chickamauga river through the pipe system was purer than that in the wells and springs of the grounds. He said he had found some sewer bacilli in one or two of the wells, though no typhoid germs. He had also found impurities in water taken from some of the springs. Through experiments he had learned flies could carry typhoid fever germs.

THANK PROVIDENCE.

The President Issues a Proclamation Telling What We Should Express Gratitude For Nov. 24.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The president issued the following thanksgiving proclamation:

By the President of the United States:

A Proclamation.

The approaching November brings to mind the custom of our ancestors, hallowed by time and rooted in our most sacred traditions, of giving thanks to Almighty God for all the blessings he has vouchsafed to us during the past year.

Few years in our history have afforded such cause for thanksgiving as this. We have been blessed by abundant harvests, our trade and commerce have been wonderfully increased, our public credit has been improved and strengthened, all sections of our common country have been brought together and knit into closer bonds of national purpose and unity.

The sides have been for a time darkened by the cloud of war, but as we were compelled to take up the sword in the cause of humanity, we are permitted to rejoice that the conflict has been of brief duration and the losses we have had to mourn, though grievous and important, have been so few, considering the great results accomplished, as to inspire us with gratitude and praise to the Lord of Hosts. We may laud and magnify his holy name that the cessation of hostilities came so soon as to spare both sides the countless sorrows and disasters that attend protracted war.

I do therefore invite all my fellow citizens, as well those at home as those who may be at sea or sojourning in foreign lands, to set apart and observe Thursday, the twenty-fourth day of November, as a day of national thanksgiving, to come together in their several places of worship, for a service of praise and thanks to Almighty God for all the blessings of the year; for the mildness of the seasons and the fruitfulness of the soil, for the continued prosperity of the people, for the devotion and valor of our countrymen, for the glory of our victory and the hope of a righteous peace, and to pray that the divine guidance which has brought us heretofore to safety and honor may be graciously continued in the years to come.

In witness whereof, etc.

(Sig) WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

By the president:

JOHN HAY, Secretary of State.

A Rededication of Independence Hall and a Civic Parade Held at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—The great peace jubilee has been brought to a close. A rededication of Independence hall occurred and then a civic parade.

Governor Hastings, Mayor Warwick and the other officials reviewed the parade from the same stand in the court of honor which the president occupied Thursday.

The rededication of old Independence hall, the historic building from which the Declaration of Independence was read to the people of the new republic on July 4, 1776, was interesting. The building, which had from time to time since that date been added for uses as offices of the municipal authorities, have all been recently removed and the famous hall is now in its original form.

The rededication exercises were presided over by Governor Hastings and were opened by prayer by Rev. Dr. Brownson. The governor also addressed the assemblage. The anthem "My Country 'Tis of Thee," was sung by 3,000 pupils of the public schools. Other exercises followed.

More than 20,000 men were in the line, the beauty of which was enhanced by many interesting floats. Especially handsome were those illustrative of the war.

The commercial museums had floats descriptive of Hawaii, the Philippines, Porto Rico and Cuba. Four natives in costume were on the Hawaiian float, which also carried bags of sugar, coffee and other products. The same idea was pursued on the other floats representing our newly acquired colonies.

Generals Miles and Shafter were at the Bellevue during the early part of the parade, but saw none of it in public. Among those on the stand in front of that hotel were Consul General Magalhães of Brazil, his wife and niece, Countess Westback.

One of the events of the day was a reception aboard the new Japanese cruiser Kasagi, by Captain Kashiwabara and the officers of the ship. The function was in the nature of a farewell, as the Kasagi, which recently went into commission, will shortly sail for England and after receiving her guns thence to Japan.

Captain Foraker Out of Danger.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—General Wate cables the war department from Havana that Captain J. B. Foraker, who has been ill with yellow fever, is out of danger and will start north at the end of next week.

MARCHAND'S MOVE.

Some London Papers Think It Indicates Yielding.

MAY LEAVE FOR CAIRO TODAY.

The French Commander Arrived at Khartoum From Fashoda—Assumed in London He Will Ask to Be Allowed to Withdraw His Force.

CAIRO, Oct. 29.—Major Marchand arrived at Khartoum from Fashoda and will start for Cairo today.

As the other Frenchmen remain at Fashoda, Major Marchand's departure from there is not regarded as a settlement of the question as to the possession of that place, which is in dispute between Great Britain and France.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The first cabinet minister to speak publicly since the cabinet council on Thursday is Lord Balfour of Burleigh, secretary for Scotland, who, when addressing a meeting at Calashiels, Scotland, declared that it was the settled policy of the government that the valley of the Nile must be Egyptian territory.

The morning newspaper editorials regard Major Marchand's movements from Fashoda to Khartoum as indicative of a yielding on the specific question in controversy, although the position is officially unaltered.

It is assumed that he will push on to Cairo in order to be in direct communication with the French government, and that on reaching there he will represent to Paris the impossibility of remaining at Fashoda under existing conditions, and will ask authority to withdraw his entire force.

There does not seem to be the slightest foundation for the report that the British cabinet has decided to declare the protectorate of Great Britain over Egypt.

TRAGEDY ON STREET CAR.

Crazy Man at Atlanta Killed a Passenger and Wounded Others—Had Asked to Be Locked Up.

ATLANTA, Oct. 29.—W. G. Shockley, an insane farmer of Auburn county, Ga., cut the throat of J. D. Bishop and wounded Police Captain John Thompson on a street car here. Robert McCoy, an ex-policeman, in effecting the capture of the demented murderer, was seriously but not fatally stabbed. Bishop died instantly.

Shockley called at the police station and asked to be locked up as he was going insane, but was thrown out of the station. Shockley then called on Governor Atkinson and asked for protection and, while the governor was telephoning the police, the insane man departed.

WILL PROTECT CATHOLICS.

Emperor William So Stated—May Reach Jerusalem Today.

JAFFA, Palestine, Oct. 29.—The emperor and empress of Germany were warmly welcomed on their arrival here, after a hot and tiring eight-hour drive from Haifa, by the German residents here. Their majesties proceeded on horseback to the camp at Babelwad and expect to reach Jerusalem today.

HAIFA, Palestine, Oct. 27.—(Delayed in transmission.)—Replying yesterday to the address of welcome in behalf of the German Catholics of Palestine, Emperor William of Germany said he was pleased to seize the opportunity of declaring "once and for all, that my Catholic subjects may always be sure of my imperial protection, when and where it may be required."

TO BUILD NICARAGUA CANAL.

If Congress Fails, New York Capitalists Are Ready to Take It Up.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Lyman E. Cooley is authority for the statement that the capitalists behind Edward F. Cragin and Frank S. Washburn in their effort to secure an option on a concession from the Nicaraguan government to construct an interoceanic canal are not from Chicago, but from New York, William R. Grace and son and Charles E. Flint.

Mr. Cooley says in case congress fails to act Grace and his associates will come in as residuary legatees next October if satisfactory arrangements can be made with the old company.

MAY ALLOW MAINE RAISED.

Navy Department Disposed to Accept the San Francisco Offer.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The Acme Wrecking company of San Francisco has made a request upon the navy department for authority to raise the battleship Maine.

If the government wants the ship after she reaches the United States the company will want to be paid salvage money through condemnation proceedings. It is probable, in case the government did not want the ship, the company would exhibit her in different large seacoast cities of the United States. No money is demanded from the government by the company. It is stated at the department unofficially that in case the company is found reliable the authority asked will no doubt be given.

OHIO GOLD EXCITEMENT.

Property About Malvern About Twice Its Usual Price—A Reliable Man Interviewed.

CANAL DOVER, O., Oct. 29.—The gold excitement at Malvern is still spreading, and there now seems to be sufficient evidence to indicate that gold really exists in paying quantities.

The details so far from the field have been meager because of the out-of-the-way location and the infrequency of travelers from that district to this point. Jacob Geffert, whose home is in Malvern, who arrived here, is a reputable man and his statements ought to be authoritative. In speaking of the new eldorado he said: "It is difficult to find out just what there is in it, for Mr. Alfred Wartmon, a newcomer, who has purchased a $1,000 mining outfit."

"Some of the reports have been shown to me, and they are more promising than the one made by Wartmon, which shows about $23 of pure gold to the ton of quartz. There is one assay made at the instance of a Malvern man, whose name I am not privileged to mention, which shows between $50 and $60 of gold to the ton."

"If it is all a scheme to raise the price of real estate on the part of Wartmon and other farmers, they should begin selling pretty soon. Many of them have now been offered more than twice the value of their land, but they are still holding on and say they will not sell at any price."

The big quartz crusher will be in operation within a day or two.

OHIO SOLDIERS INJURED.

CAMP MEADE, MIDDLETOWN, Pa., Oct. 29.—An accident that might have resulted very seriously occurred to the train on which the Ninth Ohio colored troops were coming to Camp Meade from Philadelphia. The train had reached Hummelstown, over the Reading road, and was waiting to be switched on to the branch road that goes to Middletown. While standing on the switch a freight train from Harrisburg came along on the same track and, before it could be flagged, it crashed into the troop train, mashing the rear car and injuring six men, all of Company C.

The injured are: Floyd Stewart, leg badly crushed, will have to be amputated, and Hugh Travers, severely injured, both taken to private houses in Hummelstown. The slightly injured are Emanuel Mack, Benjamin Bangs, Luther Whittier and Benjamin Williams, all of whom were injured about the legs and were badly contused. They were brought to the Harrisburg hospital. It was said the flagman did not go back far enough to stop the freight train.

MRS. ORR ELECTED PRESIDENT.

The State Federation of Women's Clubs Adjourned at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 29.—The Federation of Women's clubs concluded their convention. The election resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. W. P. Orr of Piqua. Vice president, Mrs. J. H. Canfield, Columbus.

Recording secretary, Miss Alpha Cheney, Washington O. H.

Treasurer, Mrs. L. H. Selover, Cleveland.

Auditor, Mrs. H. C. Adams, Toledo. The committee on resolutions reported the following recommendations which were adopted:

"Whereas, There are 1,900 communities in Ohio, without even the nucleus of a public library, therefore, it is recommended that every woman's club in the state shall feel it incumbent upon them to work for a permanent library in its own community; and,

"Whereas, There are but five states in our Union without a state normal school and it may be said with regret that our own state is one of them, and as there are no bounds to the organized force of this woman's club movement, shall it not exert that force in the establishment of an Ohio state normal school."

SENSATION FROM THE BENCH.

Cleveland Judge Accuses a State Senator and Another Judge of Slander.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 29.—As a result of a story to the effect that Judge F. A. Dellenbaugh of the common pleas court had received half of an attorney's fees in a big divorce case, tried before him, the judge made a sensational statement from the bench.

He said Senator Burke started the story and Judge Lamson of the common pleas court circulated it. He said the bar association would determine which was the most malicious liar.

Otis' Army to Number 17,500.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Major General Merriam has telegraphed to the war department that when the troops enroute to Manila arrive there General Otis will have under his command approximately 17,500 men.

GLASSWORKS TO START.

American Company Plants to Be Ready For Work Nov. 3.

WAGE DIFFERENCES ARE SETTLED.

Both the Windowglass Cutters' League and the American Windowglass Flatteners' Association Got What They Asked For—About 6,000 Men Affected.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 29.—There will be rejoicing among 6,000 window glass workers and their families in different parts of the country today over the word that the factories will be ready to start work on next Thursday, Nov. 3. The settlement of the scales of the cutters' and flatteners' organizations between the wage committees representing the workers of these trades and the American Glass company makes this possible.

The scale which was signed with the Window Glass Cutters' League gives the cutters 27½ cents for cutting 100 feet of single-strength glass and 39 cents for 100 feet of double-strength glass. The scale signed with the representatives of the American Window Glass Flatteners' association gives the workers of this trade 25 per cent of the blowers' wages, according to the scale signed for this firm.

GOMEZ AGAINST GARCIA.

Cespedes Faction Hopes to Pit Him—May Refuse to Comply.

MANZANILLO, Oct. 29.—According to reports from the Cuban assembly at Santa Cruz del Sur, General Calixto Garcia has been chosen permanent chairman of the organization.

General Maximo Gomez is expected there today and it appears that the Cespedes faction believes it can count upon the help of General Gomez to break the authority of Garcia. The Cespedes faction expect General Gomez to appoint a courtmartial to try General Garcia for offenses covering practically everything from murder to petty larceny, but the probability is that General Gomez, recognizing Garcia's ascendancy in the assembly, will not force the issue.

TO PREVENT DISBANDMENT.

Cuban General Wants to Furnish Guards For Plantations.

MANZANILLO, Oct. 29.—The United States gunboat Hist arrived her with General Leonard Wood, commander of the military department of Santiago, accompanied by Lieutenant Matthew Hanna.

Colonel Pettit reported that the Cuban general, Rios, is apparently making every effort to prevent the disbanding of his troops. The Cuban commander wishes all the sugar estates in the neighborhood to tell him how many men they can employ and he will guarantee to supply all required on condition that only soldiers are employed. The planters unanimously refuse to fall in with such an arrangement.

IRONDALE IS DISTURBED

FOR LIVERPOOL OR VICINITY

The Plant Shut Down Today For Repairs. It Is Said, but Some Property Owners Think It Will Never Be Operated In the Little Valley Again.

Residents of Irondale fear the tin mill will soon be moved from that place to East Liverpool or some spot near this city.

"Real estate was at a discount in Irondale yesterday because of the report spread that the mill will be moved to Liverpool. The report was started some time ago, but not until a day or two ago did it become annoying to property owners. Then it was said the plant would shut down for a time for repairs, and that added fuel to the flame. Of course I do not vouch for the truth of the statement that the mill is to be moved, but I do know the town is much disturbed, excited perhaps would be a better word."

From another source comes the story that the plant is to become a part of the great tin plate trust now in course of formation, and it, like many other tin mills, is being shut down for a few weeks until the deal is completed. Nothing definite, however, is known of the movement.

KAISER AND CALIPH.

Value of the Sultan's Friendship. The Kaiser's Efforts to Extend German Influence and to Checkmate the Czar in the Balkan Peninsula.

The effacement of religious rancors in our time is signally exemplified in the cordiality with which the Christian emperor of Germany is welcomed to Constantinople by the commander of the faithful. The sultan, Abdul Hamid, who professes to be the representative of the Abbassid caliphate, and, as such, head of Islam, does not hesitate to let his subjects see that he regards Kaiser William II not only as the guest whom he most delights to honor, but as the firmest prop of his spiritual and temporal authority. Yet it is only about 200 years since a Turkish army besieged Vienna, and even as lately as the last century the Ottoman ruler and the German head of the Holy Roman Empire were looked upon as the respective champions of irreconcilable faiths.

William II is thoroughly conversant with German history, and he is aware that he is now essaying a part which was played with partial success some six centuries ago by the Emperor Frederick II, whose manifold accomplishments earned for him the name of Stupor Mundi. That remarkable sovereign took a broad and tolerant view of Mohammedanism, and he turned his liberalism to account by securing from the sultan of Egypt substantial concessions in the Holy Land that no show of strength could have extorted. The next great Christian monarch to subordinate religious to political considerations was not a German, but a Frenchman. Nothing so perturbed the Emperor Charles V as the knowledge that a friendly understanding existed between Francis I of France and Soliman the Magnificent. The bond of amity then formed between Paris and Constantinople remained unbroken until after the French revolution. French warships took no part in the battle of Lepanto, and more than one French officer took service with the Ottoman troops which from time to time assailed the Austrian outposts along the Danube. In return for her good offices France acquired important commercial privileges in the Levant and certain tutelar powers in connection with the Catholic subjects of the sultan in Syria. The long friendship, however, between the two countries was ruptured by Napoleon's invasion of Egypt, and the estrangement was deepened 40 years later by the countenance which the government of Louis Philippe gave to Ibrahim Pasha's rebellion against Mahmoud II.

From the beginning of the present century down to our own day the post of Christian "next friend" to the sultan, vacated by France, was occupied by England, and British influence reached its acme in the person of Lord Stratford de Redcliffe, known to the Turks as "the Great Elchi." After his retirement from public life the ascendancy which he had gained for England at Constantinople was not steadily sustained, although it was temporarily revived by Lord Beaconsfield. Some years ago Prince Lobanoff, the head of the Russian foreign office, contrived to make his country preponderant in the councils of Yildiz Kiosk, and for a time it seemed quite possible that the czar might obtain a renewal of the treaty of Unkiar Skelessi, by which in 1833 an effort was made to convert Turkey into a vassal state of the great northern empire. Since Lobanoff's death, however, Russia has lost ground, notwithstanding her willingness to avert an interposition of the powers on behalf of the Armenians, and the Christian sovereign to whom Abdul Hamid now looks for advice and support is Kaiser William II.

It is obvious that from a cordial understanding both caliph and kaiser would have much to gain. Such a combination could scarcely fail to prolong the hold of the Ottoman dynasty on the remnant of its possessions in southeastern Europe. There is no doubt that German engineers could render the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus impregnable, thus cutting off England and Russia from approach to the sultan's capital by sea. German officers, if lent, as Von Moltke was, for the purpose, could speedily convert the excellent war material furnished by the Turkish levies into a redoubtable military machine. The Asiatic revenues of Abdul Hamid would be materially increased if German enterprise and capital were permitted to develop the natural resources of Anatolia, and if the railway to Angora, already in German hands, were extended to the Tigris we should speedily witness a revival of agriculture and of manufactures throughout Mesopotamia, from Mosul to Bassora.

William II, on his part, may be reasonably supposed to have in view not only immediate but remote advantages. He aims to acquire forthwith the whole or a part of the tutelar functions which France has hitherto exercised in relation to the Catholic Christians in Syria, and to secure for Germans in Asia Minor such railway and mining privileges as will eventually give them throughout that extensive region the same commercial preponderance which China has conceded to them in the province of Shantung. It is probable that the emperor's imagination is also haunted by visions of contingencies, that might open to him a prospect of aggrandizement nearer home. He has good reason to believe that when the disruption of the Hapsburg dominions shall take place, the 9,000,000 of Germans in the cis-Leithan half of the dual monarchy will insist upon reunion with the German empire. This notable addition to his strength would encourage him to assert a claim to all of the Hapsburg provinces on this side of the Leitha, together with Bosnia, which is geographically associated with them. He would thus acquire seaports on the Adriatic and make Germany a Mediterranean power, and he would become a formidable, and, probably, successful, rival of the czar for ascendancy in the Balkan peninsula. From Bosnia and Novi Bazar there would be but a step to Salonica, one of the keys of the Aegean, whence, too, it would be far easier for a German force to move upon the sultan's capital than it would be for a Russian army to cross the Danube and to pass the Balkans. As he rides through the streets of Stamboul today William II is pretty certain to remember that the outcome of the fifth crusade was to place a German warrior, Count Baldwin of Flanders, upon the throne of Constantine.—New York Sun.

KING OF JOCKEYS.

A Little Tale Relating to Tod Sloane's Fondness For Luxury.

Tod Sloane, the jockey, is admired in London for qualities that were never noticed in him in New York, although he doubtless possesses them, says the New York Sun. The London paragraphs have described him in terms that might almost be taken to indicate a disposition to look on him as a beauty. "Pale featured and dark wavy hair" is one phrase that gives only a faint idea of Mr. Sloane's intensely common sense and practical look. His luxurious way of life is another peculiarity which has made a profound impression. One of the newspapers prints this story of him: "Sloane's style of living is magnificent. He travels with the impedimenta of a prince doing the grand tour. Luxurious surroundings he likes and insists upon, not to gratify a pompous temperament, but simply because he likes them. His quarters in London are at the Hotel Cecil, where he is regarded generally with something more than curiosity and by the underlings almost with reverence. Among the wealth of anecdote which has accumulated round him is a little tale relating to this fondness for luxury. On the occasion of a race meeting somewhere out in the States an owner called beforehand at the most fashionable hotel in the place to engage a suit of rooms. The price asked was too extortionate even for a society millionaire, as he was, and he said so, and refused to take the rooms. "Then put 'em down to me," drawled a voice behind him. It was Tod. The millionaire was a man whose horses he rode. Sloane is much addicted to evening dress, and it suits him. There are jockeys whom it wouldn't. It is related of a famous entertainer of the swallowtail and piano kind that he once reproached an actor with slaving for a fixed wage. "Look at me," he said. "I make thousands." "Well," came the reply, "we don't all look so funny as you in evening dress." Sloane looks a gentleman in it."

Rubber Bands.

"Rubber bands have supplanted twine to a great extent in the last few years," observed a salesman in a drug store as he slipped a band around a 5 cent package of sodium bicarbonate. "Up to ten years ago rubber bands were seldom seen outside of a courthouse or a lawyer's office, and their use was confined almost exclusively to the filing of court documents and papers. Now you find them everywhere. Bands are used on all small packages in drug stores, and they have become an important factor in the grocery business. They answer the same purposes as twine, and are adjusted much easier.

"It may not be generally known that a rubber band is the best tooth cleaner known. It can be forced between the teeth, no matter how close together, and it removes accumulations that cannot be reached with a toothbrush. Yes, the rubber band has come to stay. I don't know to what extent it has hurt the twine industry, but it must be considerable."—Philadelphia Record.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic.—"Helpfulness."—Ex. xvii, 8-13; Gal. vi, 1-5.

We are dependent, independent and interdependent in this life. We depend upon God, we act independently for ourselves, and we also depend upon one another for much in life. "No man liveth to himself." He is dependent for much upon those who are about him in life. This mutual dependence is illustrated in the first topical reference. This is the story of the defeat of the Amalekites at Rephidim. God made success depend upon intercessory prayer. While Moses held up his hand Israel prevailed, but, when he let down his hand, Amalek. But Moses' hands became weary, and then Aaron and Hur held them up. Moses was dependent upon them for help. They were dependent upon Moses, after God, for success. Success or failure was as important to one as to another, and by their united action they brought success. By refusing to help one another they would have brought defeat upon all. We are thus mutually dependent upon one another in all the relations of life. In the home, in the Endeavor society, in the church, in society, in the business world, we need the help of one another, and in helping others we help ourselves, as Aaron and Hur benefited themselves in holding up the arms of Moses.

It is not only good policy to help one another in life, but it is also a religious duty. "Bear ye one another's burden" is the command of Paul. "Be willing to lay down your lives for the brethren" is the practical command of Christ, and in helping one another we thus fulfill the law of Christ.

We are to help one another in bearing all the burdens of life—its sorrows, its infirmities, its errors and its sins. The object of helping others to bear their sins is that they may be reclaimed. "If a brother be overtaken by a fault, ye that are spiritual restore such a one in the spirit of meekness." Restoration is the object of all helpfulness. Another incentive for this kind of helpfulness is our own liability to sin. "Considering thyself lest thou also be tempted," and being tempted presumably fall. We are least willing to help men bear their sins and errors. It is easier to give food to the hungry and clothing to the naked than it is to give a helping hand to a sinful, fallen brother, but Christianity demands that we shall do all three.

Nothing will bring greater happiness and greater blessing into our own lives than to cultivate the habit of helping others. It is more blessed to help than to be helped.

Bible Readings.—Deut. i, 34-38; iii, 28; II Sam. xi, 25; II Chron. xxix, 34; xxxi, 1-4; Ps. xxxiii, 20; xli, 1; Acts xxvi, 22; I Cor. xii, 28; II Cor. i, 11; viii, 1-8; Phil. iv, 18; II Tim. i, 16-18; Heb. iv, 16.

Time For Bible Reading.

A class of persons who profess to love the Bible excuse their neglect of it by saying that they have no time for Bible reading. But is there any person in this land who cannot command the time to read a chapter from the Scriptures every day? It may be doubted whether there is such a person. There are many who cannot do this and at the same time do all that they desire to do in other directions. But that is not a reason for neglecting the Bible. Our Bible reading should be one of the first duties of every day. A good rule is to read nothing else until we have read a portion of the Scriptures. If we adopt this rule, and rigidly adhere to it, we shall never lack the time to read at least a few verses from the Bible. This can be done at home and it can be done abroad; it can be done on a journey. The man of the world can read his newspapers on the cars. If we are as much interested in the Bible as he is in the daily news, we shall be able to read a chapter on a railroad train. And if it is always in mind we shall find no day too short to read a lesson from the Scriptures.—National Presbyterian.

From Presumptuous Sins.

There is a good old prayer in the Bible to be kept from presumptuous sins. It is well for men in business to repeat it when the temptations to run hazardous risks are so abundant. The most disgraceful fall I ever witnessed in a prominent church member arose from his own presumption that he could safely use a small part of a trust fund committed to him and would certainly replace it. Instead of replacing it he took more, and he soon found himself on a toboggan slide that carried him down to destruction. Venturing on God may be a noble act of faith; venturing on self is often an act of fatal folly. A good rule is never to do what we cannot conscientiously ask God to prosper, and never to go where we cannot ask our Master to go with us.—Evangelist.

God.

A fire mist and a planet.
A crystal and a cell,
A jellyfish and a saurian
And caves where the cavemen dwell,
Then a sense of law and beauty
And a face turned from the clod—
Some call it evolution,
And others call it God.

A haze on the far horizon,
The infinite, tender sky;
The ripe, rich tints of the cornfields,
And the wild geese sailing high,
And all over upland and lowland
The charm of the goldenrod—
Some of us call it autumn,
And others call it God.

"What Headaches Mean."

The dreadful headache which women suffer means nineteen times out of twenty that there is more trouble than headache. There is probably some unhealthy condition of the delicate organism of womanhood, and often added to this the digestive functions are out of order; these two conditions cause nearly all the headaches from which women suffer.

There are two great remedies specially adapted to these ailments invented by the chief consulting physician of the famous Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. R. V. Pierce. His world-renowned "Favorite Prescription" is the most successful medicine ever known for the cure of distinctly feminine ailments and his "Golden Medical Discovery" is the one supremely effective cure for digestive difficulties.

Taken in conjunction they completely rejuvenate the nervous system of weak and debilitated women; giving health, strength and capacity to the nerve-centers, renewed power to the blood-making glands and energetic force to the entire body.

A lady living in Coshocton Co., Ohio, Mrs. W. T. Stanton, of Blissfield, writes: "I had female weakness very bad for nearly three years. Had dragging down pains in and above my hips and such dreadful pains in the back and top of my head (just as though someone was lifting me by the hair). Had no ambition, would try to work a few days then would have to lie in bed for a long time. No tongue can express the suffering I endured. I had much pain at monthly periods. I doctored most of the time with as good a physician as there is in the state, but had no case until when I was quiet and off my feet and then I had more or less pain in my head. When I began taking Dr. Pierce's medicines I weighed 102 pounds, and was very pale and weak. I took twelve bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and seven of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Now I feel like a different person. Have no pain in my head, can do all my work for self husband and one child; am gaining in flesh. I feel it is through God's mercy and your wonderful medicines that I am cured."

Where constipated conditions exist Dr. Pierce's mild and agreeable "Pleasant Pellets" should be occasionally used in connection with the "Prescription."

REFINED TORTURE.

It's on the Decrease in East Liverpool—Now—A Citizen Explains Why.

Year in and year out many of our citizens have struggled along bearing unnecessary burdens of the back, seeking relief from sources where it could not be found, suffering the refined torture which goes with a bad back. The little conqueror has brought about a wonderful change and from all parts come the same report. Hundreds of grateful citizens hasten to endorse the good work and speak publicly of their own personal benefit. Read what this East Liverpool citizen says:

Mrs. Wm. Dunn, of 192 Sixth street, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills did for me what none of the doctors could do. They told me I had gravel and a little relief was all I could expect. I suffered terribly for two or three years, alternately better and worse, with severe pains across the small of my back and up my sides, particularly my right side. The pains were so severe that I was often obliged to stay in bed, not being able to get up. My limbs used to swell up so I could hardly walk, and periodically I was taken with such severe pains through the groins that I could hardly stand it. The doctors advised hot applications and gave me bottle after bottle of medicine, but I did not receive any real benefit until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. Pharmacy. Having seen them so highly recommended by others, I took them and am gratified to say that they helped me almost at once."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers, price 50 cents, or sent by mail by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

Into our hearts his yearnings

MAKING UP THE SUM

Prospects Bright For the Baum Pottery.

ONLY A LITTLE MONEY NEEDED

Go Make Up the Amount Asked by the Liverpool Parties Who Are to Put the Plant in Operation--All the News of Wellsville.

At the meeting of the soliciting committee of the Improvement company last night it was found that progress had been made toward securing the $1,250 necessary to secure the operation of the Baum pottery, but still the required figure had not been reached. Today a last effort is being made, and doubtless it will be successful. Less than $500 was needed, but it is conceded that for so small amount the public spirited men of this place will not let this enterprise fail, and this evening, if all goes as expected, the East Liverpool parties and the Improvement company will meet and sign the necessary papers, and work will at once begin on the necessary additions.

A Burglar's Mistake.

"When I looked into the dining room of a house that I was in one night," said the retired burglar, "I saw a man sitting in a chair perched upon the dining room table. That seemed a singular place for a man to get to sit, drunk or sober, but I thought I'd have to give him a chance to get tired of sitting there and go to bed before I began, for if I didn't he might wake up any minute and interrupt things. So I took a seat in a big leather chair in the library, next room, and waited for him to wake up. When I'd waited what I thought was a reasonable time without hearing from him, I looked in again, and there he was, still sitting there, just the same."

"But this time, even in that light, there was something peculiar about him, and I ventured to turn my own light on him now, and then I saw that it wasn't a man at all, but a suit of clothes, with a hat on top, set up there to dry after being wet in the rain. The man that had worn them had been abed and asleep for hours, but his clothes had served for a scarecrow mighty well, for I'd sat there waiting for them to go to bed so long that it was now too late for business."—New York Sun.

It would be hard for the best Democratic orator in the land to convince the people of East Liverpool just now that the Republican party does not keep its promises.

DEMOCRATIC claims count for nothing when we remember that Bryan's election was predicted by every other member of his party even when the votes were being counted.

WHILE the Republican newspapers of the district are cheerfully conceding Major Weybrecht all that his friends may claim, the malignant Democratic press is abusing Hon. R. W. Tayler every day. It is not courtesy, and certainly cannot at this time be called good politics.

FRIGHTENED.

The Democrats are frightened. Not only in Ohio do they fear the result of the election, but throughout the country are they expecting Republican gains.

It all comes from the blunder of the individual who first declared the war had been a failure, and President Mc-Kinley representing the Republican party should be rebuked by a sweeping Democratic victory. The story worked well for a week or two, but, when the people began to think, the Democrats knew they were on the wrong track.
 How to right themselves in the public eye was the next question, and it doubtless occasioned much anxiety, but a course was at length decided upon in the form of a circular issued by Secretary Kerr. In it he pleads for the support of the people for the party, and protests that Democracy never thought of aiding Spain, nor would it if it gained control of the house of representatives.
 But Mr. Kerr loses. The people cannot reconcile the statements of the Democratic press and those of the circular.
 They are too wide apart. They mean too much when placed side by side.

MUCH ABOUT GOLD

Colonel Poorman Also Talked of War.

AFTER THE ADMINISTRATION

He Quoted Amounts as Though Millions of Dollars Were as Nothing, and Handled the Silver Question Much After the Fashion of the Orators Who Made Republican Votes Two Years Ago--Few People Saw the Opening of the Democratic Campaign.

The Democratic meeting held last evening was attended by less than 200 people, and very little enthusiasm was displayed.

The meeting was called to order by
 R. J. Meakin, who announced that J.
 J. Weisend had been selected as chairman. Mr. Weisend in a short speech introduced Col. C. L. Poorman, and he said:

"Fellow countrymen—I am here rather unexpectedly on a few days' notice to speak on the issues of the campaign. I understand this is the first speech of the campaign in your city, and there is also one to be delivered here tomorrow night. I have heard many speeches during this campaign and have read many more of the people of the administration party and have been struck with their similarity. They have been making speeches so near alike. They eulogize proficently the great work of the administration in relation to the American-Spanish war, and talk of the great things the administration has done, not only in the war, but in providing prosperity to the business interests all over the country.
 Having done this they appeal to you to stand by the administration and hold up their hands until they dispose of the questions arising out of the war.

"My fellow countrymen, in 1896 both parties in their platform were in favor of freedom for Cuba. The whole of the American people were in favor of driving the Spanish out of the western hemisphere. Cuba would have had her freedom before this and no money would have been spent by this government; no bonds issued making an additional tax of $6,000,000 on the people.
 If this administration and the one preceding it, (as this administration follows in its steps,) if Mr. Cleveland or Mr.
 McKinley had promptly recognized the belligerency of the Cubans and allowed the Americans who wanted to fight for Cuba to do so. Cuba would have been free quicker this way than we have made it. That is my opinion.
 The victory of the war belongs to no party. All parties were in favor of it.
 Everybody became disgusted because
 the administration did not favor freedom for Cuba, but wanted to establish a stable government without considering of a Cuban government. All the negotiations between the administration and Spain were for a stable government for the island without driving the Spaniards out. The people in congress finally became tired of the discussion and forced the hand of the administration, and now we are asked to hold up the hands of the administration. The Cuban question has nothing to do with this question and ought not to be brought into it, but if it is by one party

 then why not make it so that all people
 may vote intelligently on it. Congress decided upon war with a unanimity that has never been known by this or any other country. Fifty million dollars was voted the administration to use as they saw fit. Both parties were for war, and when it is said by some of the Republicans that there was any antagonism to the appropriation it is done to mislead the people.
 There was a difference of opinion as to
 how the money should be raised, and I am glad there was antagonism to the system adopted which places the burden
 on the people. The $200,000,000 bonds
 issued are useless, and every dollar of it is still in the treasury, none having been used, yet there is an interest of $6,000,000
 a year to be paid. The idea of a great nation like the United States going to war with a bankrupt country like Spain
 and have to borrow money to do it. It is an insult to the American people. The issue of bonds was not necessary. Why did they not wait until the money was needed and then issue bonds
 if necessary? When war was declared
 tration, with a law bringing in $175-
 000,000 a year and $49,000,000 of silver
 in the treasury to be coined. They were pleaded with to coin the silver,
 but they refused to do it, because the
 money lenders of the country have the administration by the throat. I am willing to give the administration credit
 for all it has done in the interests of the American nation and flag.

"I have known President McKinley
 for years and when he was governor of the state he appointed me to the office
 of secretary of state to fill an unexpired term. I had been a Republican for years, and when the silver question
 came up I read all the gold standard
 argument in order to be better posted,
 and was struck with the fallacies of it.
 When the party decided in 1888 and 1892 in favor of gold and silver, and as late as 1890 I heard President McKinley
 denounce Grover Cleveland in a speech
 at Toledo for trying to force the gold standard on the people, I believed we stood on the same platform the same as we had stood for 20 years. When they tried to force the gold standard on
 leave the party and in 1896 came the parting of the ways. There is no Abraham Lincoln Republican party in the country today. There is no Grover Cleveland Democratic party in the country today. In 1896 Grover Cleveland and Carlisle joined force with Mark Hanna and McKinley and formed
 the present Republican party. Unless
 the gold standard is more firmly fastened on the congress which meets in December it will never be fastened on
 the people in your day or mine.

"This is an important election. The Gage bill and the monetary bill of Indianapolis are before congress. If the Gage bill is passed it sooner or later
 means the retirement of the paper dollar, and the government will go out of
 the banking business and put the banks
 in the place of it.

"I know I am talking tonight in the best fixed city in the United States
 under Republican rule, where the policy of the Republican party has brought about the best possible condition.
 It was not the Dingley tariff bill that did it, and you would never have had
 your wages restored if you had been without that stalwart organization to enable you to demand your rights. The steel wages and tin wages in our county
 have been cut in two. I understand the money question and the tariff question,
 and am just as much a tariff man as
 ever if it can be operated on a gold standard basis. The conditions are now such that protection is a farce. I am a protection man, but I can't see how a protection man can be a gold standard

 man.

"The whole drift of affairs for the past 25 years has been to a worse condition. From 1850 to 1872 prices were going up and we had free trade and protection during that time with free trade
 a greater portion of the time. In 1849
 gold was discovered in California and a few years later in Australia, and from 1850 to 1870 the greatest amount of gold
 of the age was produced and
 this was the cause of the raise
 in prices. Then came the blighting smooch of the gold standard, and from 1872 to 1898 there has been one continued trend downward. If gold caused prices to go up why then
 should we wipe out one-half of our bimetallic money and intend to wipe it clear out in the payment of debts? The proposition pending before you is that legal tender money be disposed of and
 its place filled with notes issued by the banks. That is the Gage bill, and that will be passed if you send a Republican congressman, and it will result in the persistent ruin of the country.

"The greenbacks saved the Union
 during the Rebellion. When the capitol was in danger the greenbacks alone stood up, and we owe the same to Abraham Lincoln. In that time Chase was opposed to the greenbacks and called in
 the bankers, and they decided not to lend to the government. They sent in their proposition to Mr. Lincoln and he refused to accept it, and then they told him the capitol was in danger. He replied that the nation might as well be conquered by the confederates as by the money power of the country, and at once ordered the issue of greenbacks
 and we had 17,000,000 of them under
 his administration. Just as sure as Mr.
 Tayler is elected the greenbacks will be withdrawn before the next presidential election. That is the keynote of the campaign. They will do that if you endorse it, and you can't blame them.
 After it is done it will be too late to wake up. After the banks have been given the power you can't take it away
 from them. Until their time is out no power on earth except a revolution can take it away from them."

The speaker then launched into the midst of many figures to show that business was not as good now as it had been in the years from 1850 to 1872, and there had been more assignments in 1896, 1897 and 1898 in Stark county than
 in 1887 or 1888. He said the country was not marching to the front under
 the gold standard as the administration
 would have the people believe. He made a prophecy that work would never be better under a gold standard
 and the Gage bill meant going back to the old wildcat system when money
 died in a night.

The speaker closed by saying: "If a Republican congress is elected the greenbacks will go out and the power
 of issuing money will be given to the bank. If you believe in the greenback system and are opposed to the Gage bill
 you ought to vote against the Republican party and put this question off until 1900. If you are true to yourself and true to the country you will vote for the brave soldier and gallant Major Wey-
 brecht for congress and against the gold standard."

A Brazilian Indian Story.

Here is a Brazilian Indian story, says
 the New York Times. The jaguar and the monkey met. The jaguar had a luscious bunch of plantains which the monkey craved. "I will gladly give you
 the plantains," said the jaguar, "providing you catch a fawn for me."
 "Agreed," cried the monkey. "But,"
 added the jaguar, "if you don't get the fawn you must promise to let me bite a mouthful out of you." "Agreed," once more cried the gleeful monkey. The monkey ate the plantains, and the little matter about the fawn quite slipped his memory.

Then one day the jaguar met the monkey and insisted on taking his pay out of the monkey's side. The business, becoming serious, was left to the pec-cari to decide. "It seems all right enough," said the peccari, "only this:
 How am I to determine what is the exact size of a jaguar's mouthful and also
 the matter to the big snake." The big snake took the subject under consideration. His judgment was that he would have to swallow the jaguar, the monkey and the peccari. The jaguar and peccari
 he did at once assimilate, but the monkey, being nimble, escaped.

When anybody in your house is sick

 But when he writes the prescription

Wooster Although Callahan Lives In Coshocton.

LISBON, Oct. 29.—[Special]—Last night Sheriff Gill received an execution from Wayne county to levy upon the property of M. J. Child. The judgment is for $7,130.60, and was taken yesterday at Wooster upon a judgment note given to J. B. Callahan, son-in-law of the missing cashier of the First National bank. No papers were left in the sheriff's office by which it could be determined when the note was given. The sheriff levied on eight pieces of property, he having discovered that Child owns that much more property than was previously attached. J. B. Callahan lives in Coshocton, but took the judgment in Wayne county because court was not in session in Coshocton county.

THE LAME WALK,

The Blind See, and the Deaf Are Made to Hear.

It is difficult to believe many of the reported cures performed in Doctor Larkins' office without medicine, but the most skeptical are convinced after staying a few hours in the office and talking with those who have been cured of the most dreadful diseases.

Yesterday a gentleman from Irondale told of two of these cases, one of whom had been crippled and in great pain for years. He stated that after three treatments from Doctor Larkins, without medicine, the pain all left and he walked forth a well man once more. He has since walked 16 miles in one day. One of the most remarkable features of these methods is that nearly all kinds of diseases yield to them. Many cases of catarrhal deafness and even blindness are readily cured.

NEW FIRE ESCAPE.

Spiral Shoot Down Which School Children Slide to the Ground.

The other day some 300 children of the Hancock school in Chicago shot through the new spiral metallic fire escape at the rate of 50 a minute. They all arrived at the bottom safe and sound and were clamorous for more trips. Architect Patton of the school department, several schoolteachers and two big policemen made the trip with almost as much enjoyment as the youngsters.

The occasion which afforded the Hancock scholars a taste of the joy of shooting the shoots was the test of a new cylindrical fire escape which the board of education is thinking of adopting for the 16 "one stairway" schools of the city. It is 6 feet in diameter, constructed entirely of steel. The spiral shoot winds round a heavy 3 inch standpipe. The escape is entered through large double doors at the various floors. The shoot is perfectly smooth and so arranged that the descent is made at a uniform speed. On entering the teacher or child has simply to sit down and slide to the bottom.

In the recent test 300 children were assembled on the second and third floors of the Hancock school. At a given signal the first child jumped into the shoot, and in less than six minutes the last had emerged at the bottom, anxious for more. The report of the test favors the shoot.—Chicago Post.

Her Ready Wit.

Though he had long adored her in secret—worshiped, in fact, the ground she pressed beneath the soles of her dainty little No. 3's—he had never yet been able to screw up sufficient courage to put his fate to the test. Poor fellow! He was one of those shy, modest, self-depreciating sort of chaps that are growing rapidly scarcer, or he would have tumbled months ago to the fact that he had only to go in and win. Gertrude Alicia knew the state of his feelings right enough, but it had pleased her hitherto to keep him dangling in attendance. At last, however, she made up her mind to land her fish as soon as a favorable chance presented itself.

And the opportunity came at the Smythingtons' little soiree, when the bashful swain, entering the conservatory, discovered his innamorata looking her loveliest amid the palms and flowers. "Are—are you alone?" he questioned timidly.

And 15 minutes later, when they emerged from their retreat, Henry was asking himself how he could have been such a Juggins as to postpone his happiness so long.—Kansas City Journal.

A Horse's Skull as a Rabbit Trap.

Charles Conroy of Aurora, Ind., while hunting, made a most peculiar find. Discovering the detached skull of the skeleton of a horse, he gave it a kick that rolled it over, revealing in the cavity of the skull the corpse of a rabbit. A further investigation disclosed the fact that the rabbit had entered the hollow skull as a place of retreat, but in doing so dislodged a piece of the vertebra bone of the horse's skeleton, which lodged in the opening through which it had crawled, and completely closed the exit and made the rabbit a prisoner in its bony sepulcher, where it was kept confined until starvation brought death.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The fools who give the 24 hours to business and boast of it may criticize the man who can expel business from his mind and enjoy his books, his friends, his club, the theater, the opera, the dinner or the dance, but the cheerful man gets dividends out of life where the other gets trouble.—Chauncey M. CAREY'S GOOD FIELDING

Places Him Near the Head of the List.

Mercer Appears Well With the Published Averages—A Lively Football Game For the Benefit of an Injured Player Drew a Crowd to Colombian Park.

The official averages of the Western league published this week place George Carey sixty-third in batting, with a record of 420 times at bat, 64 runs, 106 hits, 165 total bases, nine sacrifice hits, six stolen bases, and an average of .252. In fielding he stands second among the first basemen, and is but one point behind Motz, who leads with a per cent of .986. The record of Toadix is as follows: Games, 107; putouts, 1,190; assists, 39; errors, 18; average, .985.

In the pitchers of the league Winnie Mercer is in 50th place with 12 games won and 16 lost, giving him an average of .429. In batting he is tied for ninth place, and his record is 73 games at bat, 242 times; runs, 38; hits, 81; average, .334; total bases, 100; sacrifice hits, 9; stolen bases, 14. At short he has an average of .860, and in middle field of .902.

Sporting Life this week says: "Both McGuire and Mercer make no bones of saying they would like to get away from Washington. Mercer expresses preference for Chicago, but would have no objection to Cincinnati. He says his pitching arm is as good as ever, and that he expects next season to be in his best form."

The football game yesterday afternoon between the high school eleven and the Indians drew a large crowd, and the game resulted in a tie, 5 to 5. The high school boys played the best game, but the Indians were too heavy for them. The features were the tackling of Will Hall and a 65 yard run by Clinton. The elevens will play another game in the near future.

PLAYING FOOTBALL

Was a Young Man in a Sleeping Car.

A well known manufacturer who recently returned from a trip to the south, relates an incident which is, to say the least, seasonable.

The train was speeding north between Cincinnati and Columbus and almost all the occupants of the car were in their berths when he went for a drink, and found that something unusual had happened. He did not investigate, but learned from the porter that a young college man on the train had been playing football in his sleep. He had been found with both feet thrust through the broken window pane and his legs and body frightfully cut. Fortunately two physicians were on the train or he would have died from loss of blood. The young man pleaded so that his name should not find its way to the newspapers that the accident passed without publication. He admitted that he dreamed of playing football, and had his arms not been akimbo he would have gone out of the window to his death.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Lesson for the Week Beginning Oct. 30.

Comment by Rev. W. J. Yates, A. M.

Topic, The Call of Elisha.

SCRIPTURE READING.—I Kings xix, 19-21.

To be thoroughly effective the work of an Elijah must be followed and continued by that of an Elisha. Undoubtedly the more striking personality and more dramatic incidents belong to the Master. His is a unique figure in all history. No other one like Him stalks across the pathway of kings. Many great prophets and earnest reformers have the ages known, but only one Elijah the Tishbite. Corruption is no stranger in the courts of kings in ancient or in modern times, but the world has had only one Ahab and one Jezebel. For a bulwark against fraud, lust, perjury, slander, impiety and murder such a rugged character as the fiery prophet was needed. But all that master and pupil can do is to delay disaster to the nation, they cannot avert the doom because they cannot eradicate the evil virus of wickedness from the hearts and lives of the people. Jehu can be anointed in place of Ahab, and Hazael in room of Benhadad, and Jezebel's rule may come to a sudden end, but the disease is too deep seated for a speedy cure.

To espouse the cause of the prophet was to incur deep hatred of the rulers and scant love from the people. Elisha was in circumstances of ease if not of affluence, otherwise he could not have had 12 yoke of oxen plowing and could not have afforded a sacrifice so costly as a yoke of oxen for a feast. It was hazardous as well as expensive for him to become servant and successor of Elijah. No brilliant career opened to him if he accepted the call. Scorn, opposition and persecution confronted him. But he was of the stuff of which heroes are made and obeyed the call. His was a temper of mind utterly incomprehensible to the man of the world. It was the mind of Abraham, who heeded God's call. It was of the style of Moses and Caleb and Joshua. It was the mind of Jesus Christ.

Something of this same spirit dwells in all men who prefer honor to honors. It is the spirit of Savonarola, Luther, Knox and Wesley. It is the kingly soul needing no earthly crown and purple, but living the royal life in all places and times. "He arose and went after Elijah and ministered to him."

What Are You Reading?

What one reads forms character as quickly and inevitably as what one eats makes blood and muscle. Care in selection of one's reading is more necessary than care in what one drinks. In the Cuban campaign our troops were warned to drink no water that had not first been boiled. Yellow and typhoid fevers result from drinking marsh water. More deadly are the moral germs in much of literature. Loss of appetite for the pure and helpful, weakness of spiritual life and positive wickedness in many cases can be traced directly to a book, a paper or a magazine article. Fifteen minutes' sleep in a fever swamp will wreck the strongest constitution oftentimes. Fifteen minutes with a bad book has started many a soul on a career of evil.

In food eat only the most nutritious. In books read only the most helpful. Not what you like, but what you need, should be the rule of selection. Fiction of some kinds has a helpful influence. To read all fiction is a serious mistake. Travel, history, biography, science, poetry, all should have a share of attention. Every one should read the great masterpieces of the world's best literature. Read for information, for facts and principles, read to know human nature, physical nature and the Divine nature. Read to know the world you live in, to know yourself and to make a world in which to live hereafter, a broader, fuller, deeper, sweeter life.

These are not the same, but are closely related—in fact, are twin sisters. They grow strong together and grow beautiful and helpful or ugly and hurtful according to the food given them. So many have no hearty relish for religious work, were never gifted in speech, in prayer, in visiting the sick, in giving of money or time or anything to others, have no relish for Bible study or company of religious persons. What is the trouble? A very simple thing. They never cultivated the taste for the pure, the good, the godly. They preferred the taste of self indulgence to that of self denial and have cultivated it till there can be no relish for the other.

Taste is to be cultivated. Most tastes are acquired, few good ones are instinctive. One has to learn what is good by a variety of tests, then he learns the taste of it. At first it may not be specially agreeable, but it is wholesome. Eat till the taste be formed rightly, then comes relish. After that the taste can be trusted to help guide in selection of the good things, and "good digestion waits on appetite."

One of the most pernicious falsities is the idea that pleasantness is a test of goodness. Not all poison is bitter or sour. Many things sweet are harmful. Taste is to be trusted as a guide only when rigidly educated.

Brothers.

Oh, Englishmen, in hope and creed, In blood and tongue, our brotherhood We, too, are heirs of Runnymede!

The New York court of appeals has recently handed down a decision of the greatest interest to every part of the United States. This declares that the surplus of the savings banks, amounting in New York to $100,000,000, is not liable to taxation, reaching in this case the annual saving to the depositors of $1,500,000. The decision is made on the ground that the surplus does not belong to the bank, but to the depositors as a contingent fund to be paid to them under certain conditions, being of the nature of the reserve fund of an insurance company, an ultimate protection against possible losses. So that the word "deposits" used in the statute of exemption must be construed to cover also any surplus. The same principles which govern this question in New York rule its operation in every state, and this precedent ruling by the New York court will have great weight in determining a universal application.

Conquest by the agency of the Spanish war has added eight new warships to the American navy, seven of which are already flying the American flag in active service. Five are attached to Admiral Dewey's squadron, two are on the north Atlantic station and one, the cruiser Infanta Maria Teresa, raised by Hobson from a watery tomb, will soon be at Newport News. There is still hope that another salvage of one of the Cervera ships may be made. The Maria Teresa will be completely equipped with guns and other fittings saved from the Spanish wrecks and will be in every way a standing trophy of Sampson's and Schley's victory. She will be, by and by, one of the most powerful ships in the American navy, with men behind the guns to make that power effective.

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others? The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card. Ask for it when making your purchases. Endorsed by the A. F. of L.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped in the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

CUSTOM TAILORS' LABEL.

The Journeyman Tailor's Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under side of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

UNION MADE HATS.

This Label is about an inch and a half square, and is printed on buff-colored paper. It is placed on every union made hat before it leaves the workman's hands. If a dealer takes a label from one hat and places it in another, or has any detached labels in his store, do not buy from him, as his lab is may be counterfeited, and his hats may be the product of scab or non-union labor.

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

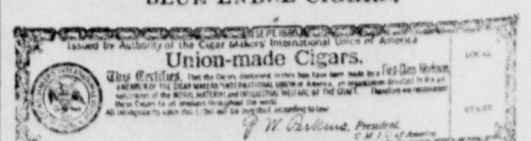

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

BICYCLE LABEL.

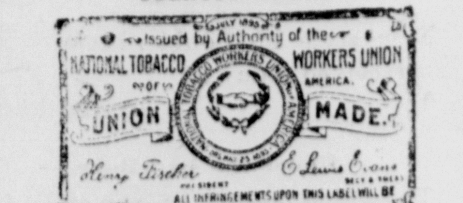

"Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." You will endorse the "Golden Rule" by buying and riding bicycles bearing this label. The colors are as follows: The Union shield is in red, white and blue on a background of pea green, bordered by gold. The Label will be placed on the upper front side of the tube that receives the seat post.

BLUE LABEL CIGARS.

This label is printed in black ink on light blue paper, and is pasted on the clear-box. Don't mix it up with the U. S. revenue label on the box, as the latter is nearly of a similar color.

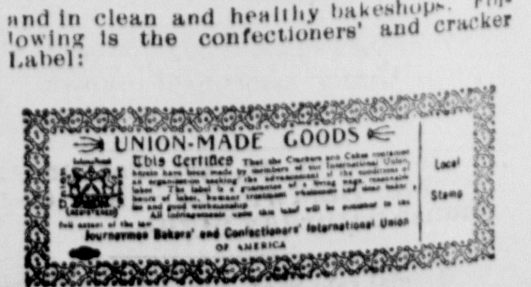

TOBACCO LABEL.

UNION BREAD AND CRACKERS.

This is a full size facsimile of the Label of the Bakers' and Confectioners' union. It is printed on fine white paper and is pasted on each loaf of union-made bread. It is an evidence that the bread is made under fair and wholesome conditions, and in clean and healthy bakeries. Following is the confectioners' and cracker Label:

PROJECT FARTHER EXPLAINED

J. L. Francis Addressed the Railroad Meeting at City Hall Last Night, Showing What Shippers Could Expect in Return For Their Subscriptions.

The meeting held at city hall last night in the interests of the Liverpool and Lisbon railroad project was productive of good results.

A large number of the general committee appointed Wednesday afternoon were present. The organization resulted in the election of Robert Burford as permanent chairman and F. H. Croxall as permanent secretary.

The chair asked Mr. Francis to review the project. He said in part:

"The amount of coal which we expect to mine after everything is in working order will be at least 300 tons every day. There is to be no money paid in advance for this project, but, as according to the subscription papers, the amount is to be paid after the road is in working order."

Mr. McNicol asked why the same proposition had not been made to the people of Liverpool as to those in Lisbon, the payment of the money as follows: Fifty per cent in six months and the balance in four and two months.

Mr. Francis answered by saying that no proposition of that character had been made.

A letter from N. G. Macrum declining to serve on the general committee on account of illness was read and his declination was accepted.

The following were then added to the general committee: D. F. Nellis, J. E. McDonald, John Steel, William Polk and Samuel Eardly.

The committee appointed at the joint meeting of the board of trade last Monday night was made an executive committee. The committee will meet within a few days for the purpose of preparing districts in which the committee can work.

Mr. Francis stated that the manufacturer who subscribed any amount of money would be given a traffic certificate. This was explained by the statement that the shipper would receive a rebate of 10 per cent off his freight bill and 10 per cent off fuel bills. The traffic certificates are to be non-negotiable.

"If the committee will furnish the means for the printing of 1,000-mile books the traveling public, or those contributing small sums, will receive something for their money, the same as the manufacturer. When the committee starts its work you can tell the public that if the $60,000 is raised the road will be built, and if the amount is not forthcoming the road will not be built."

After further discussion the chair, secretary and S. J. Cripps were appointed a committee to confer with Mr. Francis for the purpose of preparing the subscription papers and to arrange the traffic matters.

J. E. McDonald was called upon to make a few remarks, and said he was heartily in favor of the scheme, and after the road is built those who contribute money will receive it again within a few years. "As I understand the matter the money which is now to be subscribed is merely a loan, as the rebate secures the subscriber. If this road is built there will be, and you will see that I am right, more than one manufacturing plant come to our city."

Mayor Bough in speaking on the subject said: "This is a golden opportunity for Liverpool to get a railroad. With the rebate on the passenger and freight traffic I do not think it will be hard for this committee to raise $60,000 or even $100,000. The people of West Point are anxious for the road to be built, and want to see it built as soon as possible."

Councilman Stewart wanted to know when the subscription papers would be given out and the work classified. The chair advised the gentleman that this matter would be settled at the next meeting.

The meeting adjourned until next Tuesday evening.

BUSINESS AFFECTED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, said in part: "There has been more affected by foreign affairs than many realize. London's apprehension of war first caused advance in wheat and fears in money pressure here. Then came confidence in London with a flight of French money across the channel and stock markets advanced while wheat fell. Mobs in Paris did not mean to influence American interests from New York to San Francisco, but electric wires have made the world small. So the war moved a cargo of wheat from the Pacific coast, started $2,500,000 more gold from Australia to this country on London account, and the selling of American securities one day and buying the next."

There has been no domestic change of much importance and the rise in prices of western railroad stocks indicate that the supreme court decision against the trunk line association is considered helpful to railroads.

Wheat rose 3 cents from Friday to Monday and then fell 4½ cents to Friday. Corn refused to follow wheat, but slightly advanced.

Wool dealers have reached the conclusion that, with the heavy stocks on hand, it is no longer a question of profit, but of avoiding losses and concessions have brought a big increase in sales for the week.

Now Ohio holders are asking 2 to 3 cents less than a month ago, having 75 per cent of fine and 40 per cent of medium wool yet on hand, while 10,000 bales of wool are offered to foreign bidders, who may decide to export it. Colder weather has made somewhat more demand for goods and yet not enough to change the situation materially.

The iron manufacture has still a good demand, late as it is, but the makers are depressing prices by bidding against each other, although in the average of all quotations the decline has been less than half of 1 per cent from the highest point. But the wire nail manufacturers have reduced prices 5 per cent and the rail manufacturers, according to current reports, have decided not to advance prices, and there is a prospect that heavy demand for products will be further encouraged by the later quotations.

Failures for the week have been 226 in the United States against 219 last year, and 24 in Canada against 25 last year.

INCREASED THE PRICE.

Manufacturers of Galvanized Wire Advanced on This Product.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 29.—The manufacturers of galvanized wire have increased the price on their product $1 per ton. Manager DeForest of the American Steel and Wire company said:

"Representatives of all the manufacturers of wire held a meeting in Pittsburgh, a few days ago, and decided upon an increase of $1 per ton on galvanized wire. The increase was made necessary by the scarcity of zinc. Another meeting will be held in Pittsburgh about Nov. 1. The prices of wire and wire nails will be advanced at that meeting. I cannot say how much that increase will be."

Clothespins.

Clothespins are an American commodity. Some clothespins are made in Sweden and in Scotland, but they are big and clumsy, twice the size of the American pins and whittled out by hand. Clothespins are made chiefly of beech and of maple, but some are made of tupelo wood. They are made entirely by machinery, counted into boxes containing 720 each by machinery, and the boxes are nailed up by machinery. It might almost be said that blocks of wood fed to machines at one end come out boxed clothespins at the other. They are made and sold wonderfully cheap.

There are two grades of clothespins, firsts and seconds. First grade pins can be bought for 35 cents a box. The production of clothespins is enormous, millions of boxes annually. The consumption in this country keeps pace with the growth of the population, and great numbers are exported. Even people in the trade wonder what becomes of all the clothespins.

As late as 1682 squirts or syringes were used for extinguishing fire in England, and their length did not exceed two or three feet, with pipes of leather. Water tight seamless hose was first made in Bethnal Green in 1720.
